Death Ship Towed to Port

Lad Tells of Horror on High Seas

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — The death ship Seven Seas was towed into port Monday with a grisly cargo of bodies and a 17-year-old boy who softly told a tale of horror on the high seas.

The coast guard suspended at dark its search for a white skiff and three crewmen still missing from the mystery ship. Reports that the skiff had been sighted headed for Cuba proved false, authorities said, and the search will resume at dawn.

The cutter Cape Shoalwater hove into the coast guard docks late Monday with the Seven Seas lashed to its side. In the crew's quarters of the 175-foot banana boat lay the bodies of three crewmen, and aboard the cutter was Elvin Burywaise, a Honduran able-bodied seaman too young to shave.

Elvin

Burywaise is the only man remaining to tell of the gory mutiny Saturday night aboard the Seven Seas, for three men are known dead, the skipper was apparently shot and heaved over the side, and the remaining three crewmen have disappeared.

The slightly-built youth, his curly hair hanging over his forehead and his clothes stained with rust from 14 horror-filled hours hiding in the bilge on the ship's anchor chain, was taken to coast guard headquarters.

Burywaise told newsmen how he saw a burly Cuban exile shoot the first mate to death; how he fled to tell the skipper, only to find him lying dead in a pool of blood; and how he crouched in terror in the chain locker until the Shoalwater hailed the derelict ship Sunday.

"I don't know why it happened, I don't know," said the youth in a soft, level voice.

The horror began at 10:15 p.m. Saturday night, he said, as the Seven Seas, bound in ballast from Miami to Tampa,

Titan missile silo

Titan Silo Blasted, Burned; 48 Dead?

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—U.S. Air Force personnel began bringing bodies out of a Titan II missile silo Monday night after an explosion triggered a flash fire in it earlier in the day, trapping 48 civilian workers inside.

Four bodies were brought out of the silo about 7:20 p.m.

Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer at the site, said another 44 civilians were unaccounted for and presumed inside the missile complex. Their fate was unknown.

Earlier, heat and smoke had thwarted attempts of air force fire-fighters to get down into the silo and determine the condition of the men inside the launch tube.

PRESIDENT INFORMED

President Johnson ordered that every effort be made to save the missing men, the White House announced in Washington.

The Titan missile, designed to carry atomic warheads continental distances, was in position, but the air force said it has no information about whether the rocket burned.

The air force said there was no danger of a nuclear blast.

REVISION JOB

The silo, 15 miles northwest of this central Arkansas town, was undergoing slight revision and updating at the hands of 51 civilian workmen.

Only two of the workmen have been accounted for. One of them said 46 or 49 others were trapped inside the silo.

Air force fire-fighters in asbestos suits contained the fire, but they were unable to get down into the silo, where the missing men were presumed to be.

STILL FIERCE

Billowing smoke and heat prevented the air force from establishing lines of communication, even three hours after the fire started.

One of the workmen, Hubert A. Saunders, 39, a paint foreman, said his fellow workmen were trapped in the silo. He said the fire started when a diesel engine exploded.

The air force declined comment on the cause of the fire.

The Titan II carries a nuclear warhead that becomes armed sometime after launch. The exact time when it is capable of being detonated is classified information.

SMALL CREW

Normally, the silo is manned by a crew of two officers and two airmen, but during updating work they sometimes leave the silo, or remain in their communications centre, which is separated by three steel doors from the silo, where the 108-foot Titan II is kept ready for launch. The air force spokesman said he had been unable to make contact with the silo's crew.

WARHEAD OFF

The air force said the warhead sometimes is removed from missiles when the sites and silos are being updated, and the warhead probably was removed from this missile.

The Titan II missile has a range of 6,000 miles and reaches top speeds of 18,000 miles an hour, the air force said.

Greek King Loses Again

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine's attempt to find a compromise premier for Greece ended in defeat Monday, confronting the young monarch once again with the prospect of returning George Papandreou to power or calling new elections.

The deputies of Papandreou's Centre Union party stood behind him and refused to let the party's deputy leader, Stephanous Stephanopoulos, try to form a new government. Stephanopoulos, given a mandate by the king Sunday night, said he would give it back to Constantine today.

DEEP IN CRISIS

The developments left Greece even deeper in its worst political crisis since the 1947-49 Communist civil war and put Constantine in an increasingly difficult position.

The king's actions in the crisis have tested the institution of the monarchy and brought almost daily street demonstrations, with hundreds injured and one dead.

Sunday night the monarch rejected 77-year-old Papandreou's demand that he be named premier or call new elections. The monarch asked Stephanopoulos, 66, to undertake an "exploratory mandate."

CAUCUS HELD

Papandreou summoned the deputies to a caucus Monday. After more than three hours of debate the deputies voted to support Papandreou's demands and to deny permission for Stephanopoulos, or any other party leader, to become premier.

Since the crisis started July 15, when the king fired Papandreou and named George Athanasiadis Novas premier in a dispute over politics in the army, Stephanopoulos had been mentioned as the most likely compromise candidate for premier. Now that he was eliminated, there was no indication whom the king might call next.

Heavy Water Bid Withdrawn Here

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Victoria industrialist Harold Husband said last night that Western Deuterium has been forced to withdraw its proposal to build a 300-ton-a-year heavy water plant at Estevan, Sask.

Last February, Western Deuterium scored a notable success when it was awarded the contract to supply Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., with heavy water at the low cost of $14.61 a pound.

This price compared with the $20.25 to be paid by AECL o Deuterium of Canada Ltd., which is building another heavy water plant at Glace Bay, N.S.

NEW PROCESS

Mr. Husband, president of Western Deuterium, said the contract was based upon a new process being perfected by France.

It was different from the hydrogen sulphide process being used in the Nova Scotia plant, and in other heavy water manufacturing plants throughout the world.

"We had planned to use the ammonia - hydrogen isotope exchange process, which is cheaper to operate than the former method," said Mr. Husband.

Mr. Husband emphasized that there was nothing wrong with the new technique, except that it was entirely new.

"We simply had to withdraw because AECL stipulated that the heavy water plant must be in production by the end of 1967, and our engineers found that it would be impossible for them to meet this deadline."

Mr. Husband added that since Western Deuterium had been awarded the contract some six months ago, his engineers had been in close consultation with AECL endeavoring to reach an agreement.

'COULD NOT SIGN'

"We could not sign this agreement with its penalty clauses. If we had failed to make the deadline, Western Deuterium could have lost millions of dollars," said Mr. Husband.

"Failure on our part would have meant that AECL would have purchased its requirements of heavy water from other sources at market prices and this would have been charged against Western Deuterium."

Mr. Husband added that while his firm had withdrawn its proposal, it would not end its heavy water studies.

West Strike Drags On

VANCOUVER (CP) — The heads of Canada's major grain elevators returned to their homes Monday after receiving "definitive proposals" on Vancouver's grain handlers' strike.

Dr. G. Neil Perry, federal government mediator, said he presented the proposals during weekend meetings.

Montreal Elevators Busy Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Grain handlers and allied workers in the port of Montreal who have been on strike for almost eight weeks have voted to resume work today.

The overwhelming vote by the striking members of the Montreal Port Employees' Union (CNTU) came Monday in a secret ballot. It ended a walkout that several times erupted into mass marches, and spelled trouble for farmers as well as shippers.

NEW CONTRACT

Key to the work resumption vote was a new two-year contract proposal by the men's employer, the National Harbors Board.

The board offered a total hourly increase of 50 cents—30 cents of it to be retroactive to last Jan. 1, five cents effective from the date of the contract-signing and 15 cents effective from next Jan. 1.

Arid Russia Needs Wheat

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia again will be a big buyer of wheat from Canada and other foreign countries during the coming crop year, Western trade experts predicted Monday.

Purchases should run into the hundreds of millions of dollars, they said.

POOR CROP

The forecast is based on indications that Russia's own wheat crop will be a disappointing one.

The winter wheat crop, harvesting of which now is coming to a close, is said to be good. Some recent travellers to the Ukraine, principal producer of winter wheat, got the impression that it will be the best or nearly the best on record.

However, all signs point to a relatively small harvest of spring wheat, gathering of which gets under way in earnest about two weeks from now.

Officially, there has been little to indicate the size of the crop. But widespread reports tell of drought or near-drought conditions afflicting Kazakhstan and neighboring areas of the Russian federation, east of the Volga River, vital areas for the spring wheat harvest.

TRAVEL BAN

The dry weather is reported to have lasted at least through June, regarded as the crucial month for wheat growth.

Speculation about a poor crop has been buttressed by the refusal of Soviet officials to permit Western agricultural attaches to travel in the virgin land wheat-growing country of Kazakhstan. One attache has twice been refused travel permission.

'Tear Town Down'

Negroes Angered By Delay Tactics

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — Angered by alleged delaying tactics by voters registration officials, 200 Negroes staged an impromptu rally at the courthouse Monday where one of their leaders threatened "to tear this town down."

* * *

"These white folks do one thing one day and something else another day," shouted Negro leader Willie Bolden in a fiery speech outside the courthouse. "We're going to get the right to vote or we're going to tear this town down."

The crowd cheered loudly when Bolden said "I'm convinced we need a federal registrar."

Large numbers of Negroes showed up at the courthouse Monday morning but there was apparent confusion in the registration process.

Some Negroes said they had been told to come back later to complete the registration process. Others said they had not been told to return.

* * *

County officials at first said Negroes could file their voter registration applications Monday and the board of registrars would meet today to process them, but officials announced later the board would meet Monday to begin taking applications.

Singapore Quits Malaysia West Shocked

SINGAPORE (CP)—Singapore has seceded from the Malaysian federation and become an independent sovereign state under leadership of its left-wing prime minister, who said Monday he hopes for diplomatic relations and trade with Indonesia.

Premier Lee Kuan Kew, in outlining a neutral course for Singapore, also announced his country would trade with all countries, including Communist China. But the avowedly-anti-Communist Lee said nothing about seeking diplomatic recognition from Peking.

His statement brought an angry blast from Prime Minister Tunku (prince) Abdul Rahman in Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital.

Warning against Singapore having diplomatic relations with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia on grounds it is a neo-colonialist plot against it, Rahman told a press conference:

"If they (Singapore) do that, the obvious intention is to harm our interests. We can't allow that to happen. We would take action."

KEY ISLAND

In Jakarta, First Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia will recognize Singapore if it "proclaims itself an independent state."

Singapore is a key island in the western defence of Southeast Asia and the secession move shocked Britain, Australia and New Zealand. The three countries have committed thousands of troops to the defence of Malaysia.

However, under the secession agreement, signed secretly Saturday, Malaysia has the right to station military forces in Singapore and Britain can continue using its bases here.

But the secession brought

Posties Ready To Bargain

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal Postal Employees Association, said Monday the agreement ending a 17-day strike of Montreal postal workers could be described as an "interim" arrangement.

HUGE BACKLOG

All the 4,100 workers were back to work Monday and confronting a huge job of backlog clearance following a unanimous vote Saturday accepting salary increases of $510 for letter carriers and $600 for inside workers, which raise their annual salaries to maximums ranging from $4,470 to $4,200.

SHOE FUND

The letter carriers will also receive an increase of $22 on their $38 shoe allowance.

Mr. Houle said in an interview Monday: "As soon as legislation giving civil servants the right to collective bargaining is in force we will seek negotiations for a collective agreement."

Contract Let For Pulp Mill

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $5,000,000 contract for buildings at the Gold River pulp mill of Tahsis Co. Ltd., has been awarded to Laing Construction and Equipment Ltd. of Vancouver.

The company said work on the buildings for the 750-ton-a-day bleached kraft mill would begin in about a week.

The $60,000,000 mill will be at the mouth of the Gold River, nine miles from the town of Gold River.

Short Uneasy Union — Talks Break Down

British Power Jolted Harshly in Aden and Malaya

By CARL NOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's dwindling influence east of Suez has received a one-two jolt with the secession of Singapore from Malaysia and the collapse of independence talks between Britain and Aden.

Singapore and Aden are traditional bastions of British military and commercial power on opposite sides of the Indian Ocean. The separate weekend developments have created uncertainty about the prospects of continuing Western influence in both places.

The Malaysian Federation has been a pro - Western political entity that [illegible] the often-erratic influence in that area of Sukarno's Indonesia.

Heavy Water Bid Withdrawn Here

"We shall continue in the business, but as AECL is the only major purchaser of heavy water in Canada, it may be some time before we get another chance to bid for a manufacturing plant."

The Western Deuterium chief emphasizes that all the money so far spent on the project had been financed by the company itself.

The Saskatchewan government had promised to lend up to $44,000,000 on the construction of the plant, but no payments had yet been made.

In an official statement, AECL said it was approaching Dynamic Power Corporation Ltd. of Calgary to take voer the project dropped by Western Deuterium.

Dynamic had been the second low bidder last February. It planned to use the hydrogen sulphide technique.

In Calgary, Frank Brown, president of Dynamic Power, said his company had told AECL it is ready to go ahead with its project, but as yet had received no reply from the Crown corporation.

Mr. Husband said the time factor which had been the cause of Western Deuterium's withdrawal had been aggravated because of continually new developments in the field of heavy water manufacture.

One British source has indicated that such collaboration could lower the price of heavy water by $7 to $8 a pound.

The loss of the business by Western Deuterium could be yet another blow to Mr. Husband's main company, Victoria Machinery Depot.

Much of the engineering for the Saskatchewan plant could have been made in the VMD yards in Victoria, and it was hoped that this would in some way take the sting out of the unemployment situation looming up as a result of the shipbuilding depression.

With no new orders in the offing, VMD will be practically out of work by the end of the year, and the company's $800,000-a-month payroll will be in danger.

Tale of Horror

churned through the night about 100 miles from Miami.

"It was very hot. I was sweatin' in my bunk," Burywaise said in a slight accent. He said he decided to go out on deck for air, since he was due on watch in an hour, anyway.

Sleeping in the crew's quarters with him, he said, were Gerald Davison, a fellow Honduran and the ship's cook; Antonio Fournier, a Cuban seaman; Aldrick Hinds, another Honduran and the first mate of the Seven Seas; and a man he identified as Anderson. No such name appeared on the coast guard's crew list.

WALKING FAST

"I was comin' out the door and this fellow — Roberto Ramirez — was comin' in. He was walkin' very fast.

"He went in and I heard the first shot. I turned and he shot the next shot, and then he shot the next shot. He had a pistol. It was the first mate, in his bunk," that Ramirez was shooting.

CAPTAIN DEAD

"After three shots, I ran upstairs to let the captain know what was going on.

"I found the captain. He was dead. He was layin' crossways in the wheelhouse.

"I called his name and I touched him.

"He was dead.

"I ran to the chain locker. I was very frightened. It had wedges to hold it down. I pulled at the edge of the cover as hard as I could, and it came up. I climbed down inside the locker and then slid down through the boards on top of the chains," Burywaise said.

HEARD NOTHING

"I never heard nothin'. The engine ran about two hours and stopped, and then the boat just kept rollin' and rollin'.

"It was dark. It was hot. I was sweating.

"I stayed there. I never heard nothing more. The next thing I heard was the plane"—a coast guard plane that flew low over the derelict ship Sunday. "Then the coast guard boat Siren blowed twice. I came out, and I was callin' them with my hand"—and Burywaise showed how he summoned the cutter.

THE REFUGEE

"They ask me if I speak English. I said yes. They came alongside and I jumped on." That was 14 hours after the boy plunged in terror into the chain locker.

Then Burywaise discussed Ramirez, the Cuban refugee.

"We were friends. He was from Cuba. That day he was telling me about his wife and tthree daughters in Cuba. He said he used to be a lobster fisherman and made plenty money. He never talked about Castro or the government, and he never said nothing about taking the ship to Cuba.

"We were good friends. He never talked politics."

Captain Rogelio Diaz, Burywaise said, was "a nice man to work for. He always talk easy. He's from Spain."

Other members shown on the coast guard crew list were chief engineer Jose Abad, another Cuban, and Franco Solomon, second engineer from Honduras.

200 CROWD DOCK

Burywaise, who said he was from Jonesville, Honduras, had been on the Seven Seas for eight months as an able-bodied seaman, and in the United States for 11 and one-half months.

It was not immediately known who the other dead men were. But a trail of blood from the bridge to the port side of the Seven Seas led authorities to deduce that some time after Burywaise found Captain Diaz shot, someone buried the skipper's body over the side.

THROUGH PORTHOLE

One of the bodies could be seen from the docks through a porthole.

After inspecting the crew's quarters, the men went to coast guard headquarters. Burywaise was being held there.

When he came off the cutter, he was wearing blue jeans and a white jersey bearing the red numerals 65. All were stained with rust from the bilge.

Your Good Health

Spinal Surgery No Longer Considered Risky Operation

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD.

Dear Dr. Molner: About six months ago two discs were removed from my spine. I came through the operation wonderfully, can walk without any help, and went back to work seven weeks afterwards.

So many friends said I wouldn't be able to get to work for a year. I wish you would let people know you can have that operation and come out so well.

But, Dr. Molner, I'm so nervous anything upsets me. Does that go with the operation? Also, my legs hurt. The discs were in the lower part of my back.—A.A.

One thing which constantly puzzles me is the penchant of certain people to be calamity howlers, to tell their friends how badly something is bound to come out.

BE REALISTIC

The doctor, on the other hand, wants the patient to be a realist and—when justified — an optimist. Because a hopeful outlook is often an important factor in actual recovery.

I don't mean that anyone should be a Pollyanna, and pretend that everything always comes out right. If only partial success is possible, then one is a fool to expect perfection.

Now as to disc operations: In the early days, they were risky because surgeons were only beginning to find out how to do them. Wisdom grew from failures.

NO SUBSTITUTE

For quite a few years now, it has been a different story. True, we do not resort to surgery on the spine for trivial reasons, but when it is needed, there is no sybstitute. As in your case, the results were well worth the effort.

A disc is a sort of pad of cartilage between the bones of the spine. It helps the spine move smoothly and easily. It also provides space for nerves to radiate out from the complex spinal cord inside the hollow vertebrae.

When a disc becomes damaged or out of shape, it can put pressure on some of these nerves. This can often be corrected by surgery, the typical procedure being to "fuse" two (or more) adjacent bones—to use another portion of bone to hold them rigidly in place.

True, this particular part of the spine will no longer bend. At the same time, a protected place is provided for the nerves and pressure no longer will be exerted on them.

NO CONNECTION

There is no connection between these nerves, or the operation, and nervousness. Except, of course, that the very fear experienced from the gloomy warnings in advance may very well have set up such anxiety that now you have developed an unconscious sense of uneasiness over many things. Just telling your doctor about it may undo this feeling for you. Or he might perhaps find that some medication for a time may help you settle down.

As to the leg pains, I cannot say definitely. Your posture may have changed slightly.

Sailor Newsman nears goal

Crosses Atlantic

Solo Sailor Nears End of Ocean Trip

FALMOUTH, England (UPI) —This southwestern seaport is preparing a civic welcome for newsman-sailor Robert Manry, who is expected to end a 3,200-mile solo-voyage across the Atlantic here this week.

The 48-year-old Cleveland Plain Dealer copy editor set out June 1 from Falmouth, Mass., in the 13½-foot sailboat Tinkerbell. He was sighted Sunday by a Belgian tanker within 300 miles of his goal.

SUNBURNED

Capt. Robert Sarp of the 12,018-ton Belgulf Glory reported by radio-telephone conversation that Manry "appeared in excellent condition. He was very sunburned and looked as though he had withstood the long journey well."

Manry is expected to arrive here by Sunday. Quite a reception is being prepared for his arrival.

WIFE WAITING

The Tinkerbell will be escorted to the waterfront by helicopters, aircraft and a fleet of small boats. The biggest surprise of all will be the presence of his wife Virginia, daughter Robin, 14, and son David, 11, who were flown over by Manry's newspaper for the reunion.

Manry hasn't seen his wife since May 28.

"I hope he still has a clean shirt," Mrs. Manry said.

BEDRAGGLED

"All the clothes he has are a tee shirt and jeans, with down-at-heel shoes and just one clean shirt. I have brought some things for him to change into, but he probably won't have a chance before he gets ashore and he may be a bit bedraggled by then."

Mrs. Manry said she might buy him a new pair of shoes "and sneak them out to him as he sails into the harbor."

MUSTACHE

She also hoped Manry has grown a handlebar mustache as he promised he would when he set out on his voyage.

"I like a man with a mustache because it makes him look sort of English," she said. "Robert would not grow one at home because he didn't like the preliminary stages. Now he's had plenty of time to raise something really luxuriant."

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another $100,000,000 worth of Parity Development Bonds for the busy B.C. Hydro and Power Authority are going on sale immediately, Premier Bennett announced Monday.

The issue replaces one issued Sept. 1, 1961.

The Premier made the announcement to 300 leaders of the financial community at a breakfast meeting. The businessmen also got an idea from Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the authority, just how important it is these days to be spending money on hydro resources in B.C.

Dr. Shrum said B.C. is starting a three-year shortage of electric generating ability that will be broken only when Peace River power starts flowing.

B.C. will try to buy power in Washington State and from the Aluminum Company of Canada at Kemano. But he predicted. B.C may nevertheless have "brown-outs" at peak-load periods.

The Peace River Dam project is one of the main targets for money from the parity issue.

Mr. Bennett said hydro development bonds will be issued in future on a five-year cycle basis. This issue offers coupon bonds in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000, and fully registered bonds in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

The five-per-cent interest is payable quarterly. Half of them mature Sept. 1, 1969 and the other half a year later.

Dr. Shrum said development at Portage Mountain is on schedule, "although it's a schedule that's becoming increasingly more difficult to maintain."

The dam is 190 feet high and should reach 270 feet by the end of the year. It will grow to 600 feet.

Costs so far of $88,400,000 are below feasibility estimates.

Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, the other co-chairman, said progress on the Columbia project's Duncan Dam is ahead of schedule and due to be completed by 1968.

The day also brought a surprising statement from Mr. Bennett that he sees no virtue at this time in Highways Minister Gaglardi's proposal for a new $109,000,000 bridge across Burrard Inlet.

Mr. Gaglardi was described as "flabergasted" when informed of the Premier's statement.

Mr. Bennett said the proposal is an "engineer's dream" that may have a place in long-range plans. But he preferred at this time a four-lane bridge paralelling Lions Gate Bridge at the First Narrows.

WITH THE RETURN to work of 4,100 Montreal postal workers the strike which has seriously disrupted the nation's major communications system and imposed untold hardships on thousands of Canadians for more than two weeks has finally come to an end.

Undoubtedly a good many citizens have held the postal employees entirely to blame for the situation which even yet may have severe repercussions upon the economy of the country and the welfare of its people. However, in all fairness, it must be recognized that the initial fault of the whole unhappy affair was committed by the government—a fault compounded by the indecision and political waffling which has become the trademark of the present Pearson administration.

In the first place the government took no action to examine the pay demands of the postal workers—demands which have now been found by Judge J. C. Anderson to be in the main both fair and warranted—despite the fact that they had been placed before the postmaster general nearly six months ago.

Not until the workers decided to force the issue by walking off their jobs did the government finally wake up to the fact that its inaction and indecisiveness had resulted in a nation-wide tie-up of mail. Even then it continued to waffle, its waffler-in-chief, Mr. Pearson, contenting himself in appointing Judge Anderson to look into the pay demands but continuing to ignore the fact that the mail was no longer freely moving.

At this point the government seemed to dissociate itself from any responsibility toward the general public. It rejected any other means of getting the mails through and refused to exercise the authority it possesses in order to meet the crisis speedily and effectively.

It chose to wait and waffle while the public waited and suffered.

At long last, more than two weeks after the first walkout, the last of the postal workers decided for and by themselves to return to work. At which time Mr. Pearson addressed the nation with these words:

"... the government of Canada can never permit itself to be intimidated by strikes or anything else. Certainly the present government is not going to be intimidated in that way, and we were not."

If Mr. Pearson had made that statement two weeks before, the public might have cheered. Now it can only laugh.

More waffles, anyone?

Malaysian Crisis

THE WESTERN world has learned with anxiety, heightened by surprise, of the secession of Singapore from the Federation of Malaysia; and in Peking and Jakarta, capital of Indonesia, still sworn to the destruction of Malaysia, the development will be hailed as a victory of significance for the Communist front of Asia.

A setback to the hopes for the federationists for increasing prosperity, security and understanding among its multiple races the Singapore development undoubtedly is.

But it is too early to classify this separation as a disaster.

The immediate reaction in the West was probably to suspect Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew of having moved under pressure from Communist quarters. His People's Action Party was of the extreme left, although in the two years since the Malaysian union was consummated it has tended to more moderation.

However, in announcing secession Premier Lee was in tears, claiming he had "believed in the merger (federation) and the unity of these two territories" (Singapore and the rest of Malaysia).

It seems, in fact, that Premier Lee may have been forced to a reluctant decision not by Peking or Jakarta but by Malaysia's Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, who had expressed fears of serious racial disturbances if Singapore remained in the federation.

The fact is, of course, that three-quarters of Singapore's population of 1,700,000 are Chinese. And there are strong Chinese minorities in Sarawak and Sabah, the two North Borneo states belonging to the federation and bordering on Indonesian territory.

No doubt in these areas lies the cause of Prime Minister Rahman's fears of racial clashes.

Premier Lee's aim is ostensibly to re-establish friendly relations with Indonesia, to allow the wider development of Singapore's commerce to include the vast Chinese market potential. No doubt he dreams of a golden era for his city state like that experienced by the free port of Hong Kong.

It appears Premier Lee will continue to co-operate with the rest of Malaysia in matters of defence. It is difficult to believe. But until Great Britain's attitude has been clarified and the reaction of the remainder of the Malaysian states expressed, a full assessment is not possible.

The situation is dangerous—in the extreme.

Hard to Swallow

PREMIER BENNETT'S announcement that the British Columbia homeowners' grant will be raised another $10 next year to $110 will have been welcome news to thousands of taxpayers who might have thought that this year's $100 was the target and the limit. Now the anticipation will be that as long as school and municipal tax rates continue to rise, an increase in the grant will remain an annual event.

But pleased as most people may be, not many will swallow what Mr. Bennett glibly implies about the grant not costing them anything.

He is quoted as asserting, in making the announcement in an interview at the end of the provincial premiers' conference in Winnipeg, that not a penny of the $26,745,694 paid out in these grants last year came from tax revenue; that every dollar was derived from British Columbia's resources.

Certainly this sum and more came into the provincial treasury from timber sales and petroleum and natural gas fees and royalties and the like. And if the premier's thinking placed this revenue in a compartment separate from the rest from which to draw the homeowners' grant among other expenditures, he is no more twisting the truth that anyone who tells Auntie Maude that her Christmas gift of money which went into the bank was used for some specific purchase.

But Mr. Bennett can insist for ever more that not a penny of tax income was used, and the fact remains that if the grant had not been paid there would have been no need of the province levying $26,745,694 in taxes of one sort or another on the people of British Columbia.

"... and we hereby promise never to make any more promises!"

In Tough Bulgaria

Easier Atmosphere

By JOHN RUTHERFORD from Sofia

THIS Communist city with the statue of a Russian Tsar at its very centre has become the meeting place of Europe this summer.

Its own local car population is small. It is limited largely to the Russian cars of party officials. Private car ownership, though growing, is still sparse. But, outside on the wide forecourt of the Grand Hotel Balkan, are parked cars from a score of nations. Their registration plates—more from West Germany than anywhere else—make a whole alphabet.

Inside 10 minutes, I have just watched two big coaches pull in from Turkey, two from Austria, a fifth from Greece, one from Italy and another from Holland. Two Bulgarian coaches unload a small group of camera-toting, substantial Russian matrons who pour into the hotel chattering while their leader presents a collective passport.

The hotel foyer is a babel in which weary but almost always good-humored Bulgarians grapple in half a dozen languages and numerous currencies with the demands of 1965's record tourist invasion.

For one of the toughest Communist regimes in the bloc, the Bulgarians have made it all disarmingly easy. They have reduced formalities more than anyone else in Eastern Europe by simply making an almost 100 per cent clean sweep of them.

I arrived at the airport without a visa. A border control officer — a handsome young character with an engaging smile and quite good English—took my passport. The conversation went like this:

"You are here as a tourist?"

—"No, as a journalist."

"How long you want to stay?"

"Four or five days."

"I give you three weeks—all right? Please change four dollars."

This is a kind of minimal charge for a brief stay and you get it back in vouchers for use at the hotel.

By the time I had changed my four dollars, the visa was in the passport. That was all—no dickering declarations, no inspection of baggage. Within 10 minutes I was on the way into town.

* * *

The Bulgarians had 800,000 visitors last year. More than half were Westerners, i.e., hard currency spenders. This year they will surely top the million.

Last year there were complaints of over-booking. Arrivals at the Black Sea found the accommodation they had booked and paid for was not available. De luxe tourists had sometimes to be content with category "A," or even "B."

This summer, with the season approaching its August-September peak, State Travel Board officials guaranteed to me that this will not happen. They say they have gone for a big increase on last year's figures, but that the increase in building will more than take care of it.

In hard practical terms, building hotels for tourists takes precedence here over Viet Nam. They are going up all over the place. A senior official was eloquent about the iniquities of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia. He talked of economic aid for North Viet Nam. He recalled that like Russia, Bulgaria has offered to send volunteers if Hanoi asks for them.

"But Hanoi hasn't asked for them," he said—with evident relief—and then went on to talk of Bulgaria's economic ambitions and how it plans to fulfil them by earning hard currency from tourism with which to buy equipment and by working to make its own goods attractive in Western markets.

* * *

Politically, there is little change here. But there is a change of atmosphere. The influx of visitors from West as well as East has ended the Bulgarians' former lonely sense of isolation. Living standards are looking up.

The crowds on the Russki Boulevard under Sofia's violet night skies chatter more gaily, more openly and generally show more animation than I have seen during frequent visits since the war.

They are better dressed. The girls are attractive and acquiring style. If the bee hives are a little exaggerated and the mannerisms a little too obviously picked from Western journals (which almost have a black market value here), they are none the worse for that.

"The Customer Is Right" said an amazing headline in the party newspaper Rabotnichesko Delo this week. A better deal for the consumer is promised as part of a much-publicized new system of planning and management. First in light industry—and then phase by phase in other branches—factories are to be switched over to the profit system and plans based on production capacities and not party pipe-dreams. Profits will be split three ways—between the state, new investment for the factory and increased wages and incentives for workers.

The statue on the Central Square—Alexander the Liberator, who freed Bulgaria from the Turks — is the symbol of the political scene. Bulgaria is still more closely tied to Russia than any of the East Europeans.

Its party chief, Todor Zhivkov, has just made sure there will be no more April "plots" such as the abortive one three months ago, by taking security under his own direct control.

Like Russia's KGB (Security Organization) the Committee for State Security has been separated from the ministry of the interior and attached to the Council of Ministers, of which he is head.

In April, somewhat belatedly, the Russians had discovered a move in the Central Committee to unseat the Zhivkov group. They demanded a tightening-up. A scapegoat was also necessary. He was found—as a recent announcement revealed—in Boris Velchev, who until now has been rated Bulgaria's number three Communist.

Velchev was removed from the command of the powerful watchdog committee for party and state control. This also cost him his place in the government. And, though he remains a member of the Politburo and a Central Committee secretary, it has also removed him from the short list of three men who might replace the unpopular Zhivkov.

One cannot talk of liberalization here yet. But this fantastic mixing with the West sparked by tourism and the bids for more trade with the West and better living standards, can start it off as similar developments have already done elsewhere in the Communist world.

The Cabinet's Doomsday Duties

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IF you can't beat 'em, so goes the old saw, join 'em.

And since you can never hope to beat the bureaucrats, then you might as well join in the laughs over their latest — and greatest — bulletin from the Emergency Measures Organization.

Just in case you've been worried about what they ominously like to call "national survival," they've let it be known that when the Little-Men-from-Outer-Space invade, or the snow keeps falling and falling and falling, or some Quebec terrorist bomb blasts the earth off its customary and comfortable orbit, good old EMO will be ready, aye ready.

So will the government, say the men of EMO in what has gone into Parliament's records as a "Civil Emergency Measures Organization Planning Order."

* * *

This outfit known as EMO, you may remember, first hit the public in the eye with a multi-million-dollar bill for what is still familiarly known as the "Diefenbunker," a fantastically costly underground bunker installation, jack-hammered into the native Nepean sandstone 28 miles west of the capital.

When Doomsday dawns, the cabinet and its mandarins of the federal bureaucracy are supposed to cut and run for the Diefenbunker.

Who they expect to govern or, more important, tax when they emerge from this plush funkhole—equipped as it is with all the comforts of home and more—has never been explained.

An interesting point, too, especially, since to read the EMO press releases, it's going to be the lucky taxpayer, left up top to brave the blast, who's going to survive the holocaust of Doomsday.

* * *

But on with the "Civil Emergency Measures Organization Planning Order" ...

Postmaster-General Tremblay, says this directive, already has been instructed to hand out emergency change of address cards (although what happens if there's a postal strike at the time the end-of-the-world threatens, the EMO planners have neglected to say.)

But fear not, for External Affairs Minister Martin, reports EMO of Doomsday, has been directed to "assess the international situation."

Defence Minister Hellyer is assigned to "giving the necessary warnings of nuclear fall-out to the public," and Labor Minister MacEachen to "provide estimates of the surviving population," and, get this, to regulate the rates of pay and working conditions of those who live through the ultimate disaster.

(Last time the warning system sounded off here in the capital, it was on a weekend, and with EMO and defence headquarters working the regulation civil service five-day-week, nobody knew how to turn off the 43 screaming sirens. It took a couple of hours of amateur electronic fumbling to restore silence.)

Agriculture Minister Harry Hays is in the EMO Doomsday line-up, assigned to handling "plant, animal, insect and disease control," which could turn out to be quite a rumble if the nation is attacked by giant bugs from Mars.

Just so that everything will still be nice and legal, if in little pieces, Justice Minister Cardin has been instructed to "advise other federal departments and agencies on any problems of law which may arise ..."

At the same time, while the world may be falling apart, Mr. Cardin is being assigned to "perform the normal functions of the department of justice."

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh is going to be a busy girl the day-the-balloon-goes-up, for hers is the responsibility of providing "medical and health supplies from the national medical stockpile," and furnishing detailed estimates of "traumatic and radiation injuries."

* * *

Finance Minister Gordon, any day now, will have to start stockpiling great stocks of cash, for he has been assigned to "providing funds for normal and emergency federal expenditures including emergency financial assistance to the provinces."

And so it goes, with the various cabinet ministers getting their Doomsday marching orders in the EMO directive spelling out "powers and duties and functions relating to civil defence and national survival in enemy attack."

By the time La Judy and her cabinet colleagues get done with their "obligations and responsibilities" on that day-the-earth-catches-fire, blows-up or spins - off - into - the - great-outer - void, there won't be any time left to cut and run those 28 "last miles" to the underground safety of the velvet-lined Diefenbunker.

U Thant's New Opportunity

By MAX FREEDMAN from Washington

THE effect on the United Nations of President Johnson's new initiatives on Viet Nam can be summarized in two sentences. Up to now Secretary-General U Thant has been following his own instincts, working often at haphazard, and always barren of results. Now he is supported by the full authority of the United States, the whole world knows it, and he can act with new confidence and assurance. In a situation filled with uncertainty and danger his new bargaining power is at least one small hope for peace.

In the past there has been rather savage criticism of the secretary-general in the American press. He has been accused of being so impartial that he has seen no difference between Communist subversion and the resistance offered by the United States.

This press criticism has received no support from the Johnson administration. As a matter of deliberate and far-sighted policy, Ambassador Stevenson and Secretary Rusk and the president all wanted to preserve the secretary-general's undamaged authority. They knew the time might come when the secretary-general could be very useful in bringing the problems of Viet Nam to the conference table. Perhaps that time has not yet arrived but at least he has begun to move in that direction.

* * *

It has often been said that the secretary-general has no mandate to do anything in this dispute since neither North Viet Nam nor China belongs to the United Nations. This is not correct. Under the Charter he has a general mandate to bring to the attention of the United Nations any problem disturbing the peace. He is now able to use the powers of his office not only as they were defined in the Charter but as they were interpreted and expanded by the late Secretary-General Hammarskjold.

Beyond all question any huge of a negotiated settlement rests on the secretary-general. Any effort made by an individual government to promote a settlement will be co-ordinated with the work of the secretariat even if nothing is said of this co-operation in public. Thus the United Nations will always be in the background and its authority can be used at the right moment.

When he was asked if the United States would support an immediate cease-fire, Ambassador Goldberg replied that a cease-fire is without meaning unless it leads to a negotiated settlement of the dispute. There is another answer which is equally important. The United States must be very skeptical of any arrangement which seems to give the Viet Cong the title to the land which they are holding at the time of the cease-fire. Any such formula would weaken and dismember South Viet Nam and make its survival as an independent political entity completely impossible.

This explains why the rulers of South Viet Nam are being so cautious about the role of the United Nations. They want to know what the United Nations can do to guarantee that South Viet Nam will in fact have a free choice in a supervised election to chart its own political course. The United States is pledged to respect the freedom of South Viet Nam while being willing to accept the unity of all Viet Nam. This is a pleasant and ingenious formula, so long as it does not have to be tested, but it contains a contradiction and it may fall apart under the pull of events.

* * *

By every token, the secretary general knows better than officials in Washington how fragile and contradictory this principle really is. He has asked for urgent studies to be made on the problems of supervised elections so that South Viet Nam's freedom of choice will be a reality rather than an illusion. He has also made it clear that the conference room must be a place for genuine negotiations instead of being a place where the military gains of the Communist forces are ratified and accepted.

These two principles, deeply held at the United Nations, should reassure South Viet Nam that no one is contemplating a diplomatic sellout in the abused name of peace.

In these early stages it is impossible to know what Russia will do. If she is ready to minimize the risks of war, she will not use her veto or organize resistance to the United Nations' effort. It all depends on how far Russia wishes to go in widening her quarrel with China and reducing her influence in North Viet Nam. The secretary-general is now trying to find the answer to these questions by delicate personal diplomacy.

Even China may hesitate before she rebukes and defies the United Nations. Yet the secretary-general, even if his present efforts should fail, would have provided another and conclusive proof of the desire of the United States to find an honorable end to the war in Viet Nam.

"We're running out of unimportant places to bomb."

Poland, Russia

Shared Fear

By ROBERT BETTS

"THIS is Soviet - Polish Friendship Month!" declared the slogan on a wall in Warsaw.

Some Polish patriot had scrawled underneath: "All right, but not a day longer."

Soviet-Polish "friendship" was made official by the treaty of "mutual assistance and postwar co-operation" signed April 21, 1945. It was renewed last April, but by then circumstances had changed somewhat.

Poland has been less subservient to Moscow than most of the other European satellite states. Its stubborn refusal to take orders led to a crisis meeting in 1956 between Polish leader Wladyslaw Gomulka and the then Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Gomulka demanded and won a freer hand for Poland in running its own affairs. Since then it has continued firmly, but discreetly, to follow a more independent line.

Collectivization was abandoned; 85 per cent of the farms are privately run. Small workshops and a number of retail shops are permitted. Closer cultural contracts are maintained with the West.

Living standards have improved. There is more food, more clothing. Industrial exports have doubled over the last five years.

Although still burdened with an oppressive Communist regime, the Poles are proud, tough and tenacious people, hardworking and still given to an infectious gaiety despite the many restrictions which still surround them.

* * *

A sign of Moscow's recognition of their independent spirit was the new mutual obligation under last April's treaty to "communicate and consult" on all important international problems, something which was absent from the original treaty. Another was the comment by Soviet Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev following the signing of the treaty that "true unity between Socialist countries requires a strict respect for the independence and sovereignty of each state, ..."

He might has added "a strict respect for the religious beliefs," for Poland is strongly Roman Catholic. Ninety-five per cent of Poland's 30 million people are believed to be non-Communist or anti-Communist.

If there is widespread antipathy to Communism, however, there is something else which helps to form the binding cement of Polish-Russian relations—a common fear of German militarism.

Fear of West Germany keeps the Poles looking to Russia for protection, especially since the West—apart from France—has refused to recognize the permanence of Poland's western frontiers.

The Poles would like to see that frontier consolidated on the Oder-Neisse line. In supporting the "inviolability" of that line, Russia poses as the champion of the Poles.

The western territories—former German provinces—which Poland occupied in 1945 have now been resettled with a Polish population of eight million. They occupy some of the most productive land in Poland, and huge investments in agriculture and industry have been made there.

The United States has given more than $1.5 billion in foreign aid to Poland, but the Polish government has sought to keep this fact hidden from the Polish people. Apart from aid or any other economic or political considerations there is a widespread feeling of friendship for the United States, based on the fact that one out of every four Polish families has American relatives.

The Poles generally are currently worried, however, about the war in Viet Nam. They see it spoiling the chances of improved East-West relations and "peaceful coexistence."

Siege Lasts 67 Days

Major Clash at Duc Co —70 Viet Cong Killed

SAIGON (AP)—Heavy fighting has occured between Viet Cong forces and South Vietnamese government troops seeking to relieve Viet Cong pressure on Duc Co, under siege for 67 days.

U.S. military spokesmen said Monday 70 Viet Cong have been killed, the toll being confirmed by U.S. body count, and government forces have suffered "moderate" casualties in the fighting, 220 miles northeast of Saigon.

MORTAR USED

In the long siege, the defenders, including 12 American advisers, have been subject to mortar, heavy-weapons and small-arms fire from Viet Cong positions in the surrounding area. The camp was said to have been under mortar and small-arms fire late Monday night.

The spokesman said government forces have launched an operation against an estimated Viet Cong battalion in an effort to clear Route 19 between the provincial capital of Pleiku and Duc Co. Details of the fighting were sketchy, but they said a heavy engagement apparently took place east of Duc Co.

SIX CAPTURED

In addition to 70 Viet Cong killed, the spokesman said six have been captured and 55 weapons seized. The weapons included two 57-mm recoilless rifles, one machinegun, three sub-machineguns and one automatic rifle.

A U.S. F-100 Super-Sabre jet was knocked down by ground fire Monday night in the area while supporting the operation. The spokesman said there still has been no report or any sign of the pilot.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gave senators what one of them described as a "frank and candid" briefing on Viet Nam Monday and Johnson told reporters later the United States is "there to stay."

After meeting an hour and 45 minutes with about 40 senators at the White House, Johnson told reporters he sees no substantial division in the country or Congress over his Viet Nam policies.

VIEWS EXCHANGED

Members of the House of Representatives will attend a similar briefing this week, and on Aug. 17, Johnson disclosed, he will meet representatives of business, labor and the professions for another exchange of views.

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Monday Canada's membership on the international truce supervisory commissions in Southeast Asia precludes the sending of Canadian troops to Viet Nam.

He said at a press conference that this country is considering further economic assistance to Viet Nam.

"It would be undesirable for Canada to send military forces to Asia," Mr. Martin said.

'Yahoo' Was a Chore

VANCOUVER (CP)—On 36 pages of paper, Ronald Arthur Swan, 20, has written 1,000 times:

"I shall never shout yahoo at a police officer again."

Swan's longhand chore was part of a six-month suspended sentence from Magistrate Maurice Mulligan for causing a disturbance at a Vancouver drive-in restaurant.

East Germans Bid For Geneva Hearing

GENEVA (UPI) — Communist East Germany in a bid to intervene in the 17-nation disarmament conference Monday handed the Soviet delegation a "declaration" to present to the meeting.

A western spokesman said the four Western participants, the United States, Britain, Canada and Italy, would ignore the Communist declaration.

Russian negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin received East Germany Deputy Foreign Minister Georg Stibi Monday morning, a Soviet announcement said.

SAME AS USUAL

As co-chairman of the conference, the Soviet statement said, Tsarapkin was given "a declaration of the German Democratic Republic in connection with the resumed work of the conference."

The contents of the declaration were not known but were understood to follow the same lines as those in the past.

The East Germans always denounce West German "militarism and revanchism" and offer to sign a pact with the West German government under which the two Germanys would denounce acquisition of nuclear weapons for all time.

REFUSE TO LISTEN

West Germany refuses to consider such an agreement because it would amount to recognition of the East German regime.

Eastern sources said Tsarapkin will probably present the East German declaration to the conference plenary Tuesday morning.

Western spokesman said, as in the past, they will totally ignore the declaration and refuse to read or listen to it.

Ousted Critic Elected On St. Pierre

ST. PIERRE, St. Pierre-Miquelon (CP) — An outspoken school teacher dismissed from his job last April was one of 11 members elected to the St. Pierre general council on these French islands off the coast of Newfoundland.

Re-election of Albert Pen, dismissed after refusing to return to France, was seen as voters' support of his views, which differ strongly from those of the French overseas administration and St. Pierre's governor, Jacques Herry.

Pen deepened his split with the governor and France by leading anti-administration demonstrations on behalf of striking dockworkers last April. He and other councillors resigned then, protesting the administration's handling of the labor dispute.

Singapore Quits Malaysia

predictions from Chinese Communist newspapers in Hong Kong that the federation faces dissolution.

With Singapore's departure, Malaysia consists of Malaya (site of Kuala Lumpur) and the Borneo states of Sarawak and North Borneo.

A bitter racial-political feud between largely-Chinese Singapore and federal leaders, most of whom are Malays, was apparently the prime factor in the move.

Lee told a press conference Monday that the decision for his state to quit Malaysia and become a sovereign unit was forced on him by Rahman.

TEARS OF ANGER

Wiping away what he called tears of anger, Lee said Rahman told him during the secret talks in Kuala Lumpur Saturday that separation was the only alternative to the threat of racial strife in multi-racial Malaysia.

Shared by Malays, Chinese and Indians, the federation was formed Sept. 16, 1963.

"I told him that I thought there was another way out, that we could remain in the federation if it were a little looser," Lee said. "But the tunku said if we insisted he would not be able to control. . . . He said there would be communal trouble and bloodshed if we did not get out. This was a moment of anguish."

PAPERS SIGNED

Rahman noted that the separation papers signed during the weekend pledged both sides not to "enter into any treaty or agreement with a foreign country which may be detrimental to the independence and defence of the territory of the other party."

Rahman capped the day by going on radio and television networks to explain the breakaway move to the Malaysian people. He emphasized that "this way is the best" to end the internal fight with Singapore.

He put the blame for the development on Singapore's politicians, saying they have been opposing the federal government chiefly on grounds of race.

Lee had formed a Chinese-dominated "Malaysian Malaysia" movement. The movement claimed that extremist Malays in Rahman's alliance party were seeking to establish Malay supremacy in the federation whose 11,000,000 population is 61 per cent non-Malay and includes 4,200,000 Chinese.

Rahman and his alliance leaders have strongly denied the charge and accused Lee of raising the racial issue for personal political gain.

Other points of friction developed over economic policies and local powers. Singapore accused the federal government of encroaching on the state's internal affairs, particularly in commerce. Federal authorities claimed Singapore was not pulling its weight in national development.

British Jolted

vative with strong Western sympathies. He considered Malaysia's defence against Indonesian raids and subversion as one frontline battle against Asian communism, with the United States war in Viet Nam another.

* * *

With Indonesia welcoming Singapore's move and offering recognition to Lee's regime, the viability of the Borneo section of Malaysia is doubtful.

Singapore is the main operational base for British warships and more than 50,000 troops combatting Indonesian incursions across the Borneo border. Should an independent Singapore wish to re-establish relations with Indonesia, it would be difficult for the city-state to continue as a base of operations for the Borneo battle.

Aden, base for about 21,000 British troops, is scheduled to receive independence by 1968 along with the adjacent protectorates in the South Arabian Federation.

* * *

But London talks designed to set up a full constitutional conference in December broke down after a week, with Aden leaders demanding British commitment to "early withdrawal" of the military base, an end to a state of emergency and release of political prisoners.

Britain considers the future of the military base a matter for negotiation with Aden after independence. It declined to ease the state of emergency. Attacks on British personnel and an attempt to blow up a British oil refinery pipeline took place even as the Aden leaders were in London.

Revolutionary pressure on the British to quit their last important Middle Eastern base is likely to increase.

Two Boys Return Home

Vanishing Act Sets Riddle

TORONTO (CP) — Police here are still puzzled over a strange case involving two boys from the suburban Malton area who left home eight months ago, were presumed by their parents to be dead, and then mysteriously turned up again Saturday.

Anthony Diamond, 14, and Clinton Carpenter, 12, who left their homes Nov. 28, stepped off a New York to Toronto bus Saturday into the arms of Toronto Township police who took them to police offices for a tearful reunion with their parents.

EVERYONE CRIED

"The boys rushed across the room and clung to their mothers," one policeman said.

"Everyone was crying and laughing at the same time."

Police said the boys had been put on the Toronto-bound bus by "persons unknown" in New York after Toronto lawyer Anthony C. Bazos received a phone call from an informer in New York.

Mr. Bazos was told his caller "might be able to get word to someone who could get the boys back to Canada."

The lawyer notified Toronto Township police who discovered the boys were on an express bus to Toronto.

The boys were met in Toronto by Mr. Bazos, Sgt. of Dets. Melvin Simmons and Det. William Teggart who had worked on the case since its beginning.

PICTURE IN WALLET

The first break in the case came last week when Det. Teggart, who had never given up hope the boys might be found alive, recognized the Carpenter youngster's picture in the wallet of a suspect being questioned by Toronto Township police.

The man was one of two Americans, an accountant from New York City and a New Jersey mechanic, who are facing criminal charges here. None of the charges involves the two boys.

LOADED DOWN

In Toronto, Clinton Carpenter told police he had run away because he felt "loaded down" with responsibilities "heaped on him" as the eldest boy in a family of 10.

His parents are separated and he lived with his mother, Mrs. Alan Carpenter, in nearby Cooksville. Clinton said he was ashamed because his family had been forced to go on welfare.

Tony Diamond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Diamond of Malton, wanted to "get out in the world" to experience the adventure and see the things of which he had only read.

HITCHED RIDE

The boys left their homes in November, each saying he was going to visit the other.

Police investigation revealed they met and then hitched a ride with a truck driver whom they told they were going to Hamilton to attend a Boy Scout jamboree.

The driver took them to a point on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Oakville where police said two men picked them up in a car and drove them to Buffalo.

The boys told the police that before they crossed the border one of the men wrote a note purporting to be from their parents and saying they had permission to visit a sick relative in Buffalo for the evening.

They crossed the border on foot and were met by the two men on the other side.

They were driven to Queens, a borough of New York, supplied with forged birth certificates and passports and introduced to a school as "English cousins who had lost their parents."

Both completed the school year. Clinton passed into Grade 8 and Tony to Grade 9.

The boys said they ate well, had "a certain amount of freedom" and even spent some time in a boys' camp in upstate New York last month.

Det. Teggart said the boys had wanted to contact their parents but feared they would be put in reform schools if located.

The boys' parents were not told their children were returning until they were safely in Toronto because police feared the two might be harmed if it were known they were returning home.

MP Sends Out Question Form

OTTAWA (CP) — "Since British Columbia joined Confederation in 1871, have the policies of the Canadian government helped or hindered British Columbia development?"

This is one of 20 questions Ron Basford, Liberal member of Parliament for Vancouver-Burrard asks his constituents in a questionnaire mailed from Ottawa Monday to the 20,876 homes in his riding.

NATIONAL FLAG

A follow-up question reads: "Should B.C. politicians threaten to separate from Canada?"

Other questions include: "Are you pleased that Canada has a distinctive national flag?", "would you like your children to be able to speak French?" and "should the next federal election be held this fall?"

Further questions concern foreign ownership of Canadian industries and resources, immigration policy, recognition of Communist China, the CBC, division of powers between the federal and provincial governments, the United Nations, divorce laws, Indian affairs and free university education.

The questionnaire, "not printed or mailed at public expense," ends with the inevitable "have you been satisfied by the work being done by your member of Parliament?"

Answers can be returned signed or unsigned.

The charge was filed Monday in magistrate's court here against Leon Herman Glew, 38, Cottonwood, Calif. Bail on both counts was set at $2,000.

B.C. Parity Bonds

'Sell-Out' Seen

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Interest rates may be rising and money may be tighter, but the financial and investment houses are betting that Premier Bennett's new issue of $100,000,000 parity bonds for the B.C. Hydro authority will be a "sell out."

The premier announced the financing at a breakfast conference in Vancouver Monday attended by about 300 investment and financial representatives.

He told them parity bonds backed by the government of B.C. constituted the "best piece of paper in the world," and as good as cash.

NO CARES

So much money is flowing into the B.C. treasury that Mr. Bennett said the province did not have a care even if the public started to liquidate the parity bonds. "We have so much money on hand that we can redeem the bonds at any time," he said.

The bonds will pay five per cent interest, with payments quarterly. They will be in two maturities — one four-year and the other five-year.

CASHABLE ANY TIME

Both will be issued at par and will be cashable at par at any time.

This time Mr. Bennett has set a limit of $10,000 per order on the new bonds, but an individual may purchase the limit of $10,000 on hand that we can redeem the all.

NO DIFFICULTY

Investment dealers explained that there was no reason why investors might not place orders with different retailers and so collect considerably more than the $20,000 limit.

"We do not expect having any difficulty in getting rid of the bonds," said one local dealer. "Indeed we do not expect to get an allocation large enough to satisfy our customers."

Some houses had guessed that Mr. Bennett might increase the 5 per cent rate "in view of the tightening money," but most of them agreed that a government-backed call money rate of 5 per cent was "a good bargain."

BETTER SECOND HALF

After earning only 20 cents a share in the first quarter of 1965, Aluminium Ltd. improved its performance in the second quarter with earnings of 63 cents a share.

The upturn was due to higher sales and from the company's new acquisitions in the U.S. aluminum fabricating industry, according to N. V. Davies, president.

The low first quarter earnings were also partly due to write-offs of over $5,000,000, a non-recurring item valued at 17 cents a share.

The net profit for the six months of 1965 was $27,100,000 (83 cents) compared with $26,200,000 (80 cents) a year ago.

Increased sales of natural gas liquids from its extraction plant at Empress, Alberta, helped Pacific Petroleums to increase its first half of 1965 net profit by 30 per cent to $2,550,000 from $1,951,000.

Revenue also jumped by 36 per cent to $25,766,000.

Sale of liquid gas products to Japan via Squamish was noted as a new overseas market for the company.

SHARP HUSKY JUMP

An increase of 77 per cent in net profit and 10 per cent in sales is reported by Husky Oil Canada Ltd. for the first six months of 1965.

Net profit was $1,925,000 (24 cents) on sales of $24,437,000 compared with $1,089,000 (16 cents) on sales of $22,204,000 in the corresponding period of 1964.

BACK IN TOP GEAR

The U.S. construction industry which so far this year has been running behind its 1964 record levels showed signs in June of getting back into top gear.

Building permits taken out in 200 leading cities totalled $93,006,957, a new record for the month of June and the peak for 1965 so far.

This was an increase of 11 per cent over June 1964, but the six months total for this year is still running a fraction below that of a year ago.

The increased expenditures planned in June are important to the B.C. lumber industry, a large supplier of the U.S. building market.

Electoral Boundaries Commission

Fall Hearings Planned

Dr. Henry Angus said here Monday that the royal commission on redistribution of provincial ridings will begin public hearings shortly after Labor Day.

The chairman said there was no point in scheduling hearings during August because many people interested in making submissions will be on holiday.

Hearings will be held at several centres throughout the province, starting immediately after the long holiday weekend, which falls on the first Monday in September.

★ ★ ★

That aspect should be completed by Christmas, the chairman said.

Dr. Angus was in Victoria Monday for a preliminary meeting with the other two members of the royal commission announced by Premier Bennett last Thursday. They are the, chief electoral officer, Fred Hurley, and deputy registrar of voters Kenneth Morton.

★ ★ ★

The commission is now ready to hire a secretary, the chairman said, and then an office will be opened, probably in Vancouver.

People who cannot appear before the commission will be permitted to submit briefs to the commission office, Dr. Angus said.

Casper Couldn't Bear It Longer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Casper the bear just couldn't bear it any longer. The brawny bruin, a 1,500-pound Alaskan Kodiak, ripped off the 150-pound steel door to his den Sunday. Police and zookeepers rushed to the scene but all Casper wanted to do was to romp in pool within his fenced-in yard at the Baltimore zoo on a hot, muggy day. Zookeepers had moved the bear into the den while they cleaned the yard.

Three Suspended In Ticket Fixing

OTTAWA (CP) — Three members of the Ottawa police department were suspended today as senior police officials continued their investigation into charges of alleged "fixing" of parking summonses.

Chief Axcell said the suspensions resulted from the same investigation which resulted in criminal charges against four Ottawa citizens.

FOUR CHARGED

The four, who are to appear in magistrate's court Aug. 26 on charges of obstructing justice, are Mrs. Helene Harrison, 25, a civilian clerk in the police department's administrative branch, Rodolphe Lefebvre, 55, whose job was collecting money from parking meters, Rudolphe Landriault, 32, a trucker, and his mother, Mrs. Louis Landriault, 63.

Island Ideal for Hikers

A new booklet on hiking trails in Canada describes Vancouver Island as one huge tract of parkland, ideal for hikers, and Thetis Lake Park as one of the prettiest municipally-owned natural parks in Canada.

Vancouver Island hiking trails lead off the 48-page pocket-size Hiking Trails in Canada, which features 125 hiking trails in 10 provinces. It is believed to be the first national list of walking routes ever compiled in this country and has just been published by the Greb Hiking Bureau.

Trail descriptions include summaries of the terrain, principal access points, prominent landmarks, accommodation or campsites, and the topographical map numbers for the districts. The booklet also contains an index to 45 Canadian organizations involved in hiking, including the Island Mountain Ramblers and the Victoria YMCA.

It tells of three miles of lake trail around the two Thetis Lakes and suggests a climb of 475-foot Seymour Hill from the east side of the lake.

FRANCIS PARK

It also suggests a seven-mile hike from Francis Park on the east, making the loop by connecting trails from the nature house on Munns Road at the corner of Prospect Lake Road.

The trail to 1,342-foot Mt. Finlayson (reached from Goldstream Park, over the bridge at the picnic site) is described as a popular conditioner for hikers.

"It's a good, steep, rocky, well-marked trail starting at sea level, constructed by the juniors of the South Vancouver Island Rangers," it says.

Time to the top, where there is a good panoramic view of Victoria, Saanich Inlet, and Juan de Fuca Strait, is given as three-quarters of an hour.

From Barnfield to Pachena Point there is an excellent trail along the coast maintained by the department of transport to assist shipwrecked mariners, says the booklet. It gives the hiking time as 3½ hours to the lighthouse, through typical west coast rugged country with a couple of paths leading down to the beaches and sandstone rocks.

It describes Barnfield as a 3½-hour drive from Victoria by way of Cowichan Lake over private logging roads which are open to the public on weekends.

"Another good hike is to the old site of the whale hunting Ohiaht Indian village at Execution Rock, near Barnfield. This is Indian Reserve. Get permission and directions locally.

"For an extended isolated trip, one may travel 25 miles south along the shore from Pachena Point to Nitinat Lake," the booklet advises.

Mount Arrowsmith (5,963-feet) is described as one of the impressive low-level peaks that dot the Island. The trail begins near the Cameron Lake roadside park, 14 miles west of Parksville, is covered with alpine flowers for a long season and leads to a spectacular viewpoint.

CENTRAL ISLAND

Forbidden Plateau, Strathcona Park and Della Falls trails are all described in the booklet.

Of Vancouver Island it says: "Magnificent stands of west coast trees and dense undergrowth give way to open alpine meadows above 4,000 feet. The Island is interlaced with logging roads that lead the hiker to open levels."

"Please take care of the trails and their natural surroundings. Other hikers will thank you and the private and public agencies who have to maintain trails will be encouraged to establish more," is the appeal contained in the booklet.

It advises hikers to keep to the defined trail . . . "bushwacking may be fun, but it destroys vegetation, and, on steep slopes contributes to erosion.

"Don't litter the trails or sofdone vandalism of trail markers, nature trail signs, trees and flowers.

"Even if you are conditioned to hiking, don't plan on walking more than 2½ miles in an hour over level ground were the footing is good. When estimating hiking time, add one hour's time for each 1,000 feet you will have to climb and each 1,500 feet you will descend during the return trip."

The hiking booklet may be obtained by writing to the Greb Hiking Bureau's office at 1 Adam Street in Kitchener, Ont.

"Cominco great new spirit in British Columbia with mines, steel plants, power plants, chemical plants, shipping terminals—and over 7,500 employees"

"Whew boy!"

The combined spirit of 7,500 Cominconians is just great — and getting greater. Cominco has always been a major British Columbia employer. Even when the Company started in the mountains back in 1906.

Today, Cominco helps create additional employment opportunities for British Columbians through its demand for B.C. products like lumber, concrete, natural gas, paper, explosives, and, of course, power.

In the next decade, Cominco expansion will create even more jobs, provide for even more industries, make more demands for British Columbia products. For progress in the Dynamic Province we believe that — well, that's the spirit.

Alberta Leads by Eight In Team Golf Matches

WINNIPEG (CP)—Favored Alberta Monday took an eight-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 36-hole Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches.

A fine 70 by Keith Alexander, one of three players to break the par of 72 over the 6,573-yard Pine Ridge course, led the Alberta team of four to a combined score of 296, eight strokes better than that turned in by defending - champion Saskatchewan.

Four strokes back of Saskatchewan, at 308, came Ontario and Manitoba. British Columbia, getting an unlikely 83 from veteran Bert Ticehurst, was in fifth place, 13 strokes off the pace at 309.

Only two of the 36 team members managed to break par on a course which featured large, deceptive greens and which was made a bit tougher by 20-mile-an-hour winds. Actually, only 22 of the field entered in the Canadian amateur championships and trying for the 64 qualifying berths managed 75 or better.

THE OTHER TWO

Ted Homeniuk of Winnipeg was the other team player to break par, shooting a 71 to keep his team within hoping distance.

The other player to break par was Juan Estrada, 1964 Mexican Open champion, who matched Alexander's round to share the first-day medal honors with the 1960 Canadian amateur champion.

Gregory Pitzer of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was the only player to match par, turning in a 37-35. At 73 were defending champion Nick Weslock of Toronto, seeking his third consecutive title, Charles Brace of Halifax, Jim Scissons of Saskatoon, Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., and Ken Fulton of Winnipeg.

Weslock and Scissons are members of their provincial teams but Fulton missed selection on the Manitoba team. Had he been included instead of Barry McKenzie, who had an 82, Manitoba would have been only one stroke back of Alberta instead of 12.

John Russell of Vancouver, best of the disappointing B.C. team, was bracketed at 74 with Bob Wylie of Calgary, George Boutell of Phoenix and Gord Lenton, another Winnipeg player not on the Manitoba team.

Included in a large group at 75 were Bill Campbell, 1964 U.S. amateur champion from Huntington, West Virginia; Tom Draper of Royal Oak, Mich., runner-up for the Canadian championships in 1962, and Ricardo Vega, Mexican junior champion.

The team matches were featured by the first appearance of a team from Newfoundland. It was a rough debut, scores ranging from 85 to 92 to leaves the Islanders 58 strokes behind the leaders and 31 behind the combined New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island entry which was eighth.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Having just missed winning the World amateur team matches last year in Rome, and now having taken the America's Cup for the first time, Canada must be rated to have arrived as a world force in amateur golf.

With such seasoned campaigners as Weslock, Alexander, Johnson, Cowan, Ticehurst and Silverberg, the Canadian team in last week's matches against the U.S. and Mexico at Winnipeg was a formidable one.

It was the first time in seven attempts that the U.S. team had been defeated in this three-sided contest, and the Canadian victory was extremely timely because there has been some doubt in recent years as to whether the U.S. would continue to participate in it.

At one time, the U.S. sought to have the competition played by juniors from the three countries on the grounds that leading amateurs did not have sufficient leisure time to take part in this event in addition to numerous other competitive calls made upon them in the course of a year.

The downgrading of the America's Cup was opposed by the Canadian authorities, who claimed that it could only be a success if it was kept on a prestige level.

The fact that the Canadians have now won the event may revive U.S. interest in the event. It must now be clear to those across the border that when it comes to amateur events only the best available can hope to make a match of it with Canada's present strong team.

One of the interesting features of this foursome and singles match play event, was that Canada laid the foundation of its success by the advantage it gained in the "Scotch" foursomes.

The Canadian players teamed up better than the others in this alternate shot competition, and that was how they managed to hold grimly to top place despite the fact that the U.S. did best in the final series of singles and closed the gap to a single point.

With a net 132, six below par, Charles J. Keenan took the Todd Cup, the handicap meday championship of the Victoria Golf Club at the weekend.

His 36-hole total put him three ahead of Norm Bamford who had led the field with a net 63 at the end of the first round. Bamford, handicap 16, took 88 on his second round.

The winner played to a handicap of 23 for his first round of 66 net and was off 22 for the second round in which his net w. s also 66.

The following players have been selected by Zone six to play in the inter-zone junior match with Zone 1 at the Victoria Golf Club Sunday August 22.

Bert Wright (Cowichan), R. Hogarth and R. Facer (Nanaimo), P. Beneditson (Comox), and F. Bayuk, K. Foulds, T. Hicks, K. Cook and D. Smart, (Mt. Brenton).

The return match will be played at Nanaimo, Saturday September 18.

They're Set

Fresh from six-week instructional course, some 424 city youngsters like these are competing in first annual Victoria City Public Parks Tennis Tournament. Competition is on seven city courts, with all finals Thursday at Beacon Hill Park. Tournament, sponsored by city of Victoria, is for children age 10-16 — (William Boucher).

Blanks Old Mates, 8-0

Roberts Has 'Em Wondering

Robin Roberts returned to the National League last night, and he must have left Philadelphia Phillies and Baltimore Orioles wondering why they hadn't kept him. Not to mention the New York Yankees.

The Phillies let him go after the 1961 season and a career which had seen him win 234 and lose 199 games for them. The Orioles picked him up in 1962 after the Yankees had let him go without getting a chance in league play.

In his three and a half seasons with the Orioles, Roberts won 37 and lost 29 but he left a few days back at his own request, unhappy with being relegated to the bullpen.

* * *

And now Minnesota Twins and San Francisco Giants, to name two clubs making pennant bids on rather-thin pitching, must be wondering. Roberts landed with the Houston Astros, and last night he beat the Phillies, 8-0, with a four-hitter.

Only one batter got as far as third base against the 39-year-old (on Sept. 30) righthander, and he walked only one hitter in gaining his 272nd major-league pitching win.

It was one of two games scheduled yesterday. In the other, Cleveland Indians had their pennant hopes dimmed a bit more as they ran up against a younger righthander, who also had been having his troubles this season.

That was Dean Chance, pitcher of the year in 1964, and he fired a two-hitter as the Indians took it on the nose, 9-0, from Los Angeles Angels.

On Sunday in a full schedule of baseball, things tightened up again in the National League and the Twins gained a bit more ground in the American League.

OUCH

The big noise was in Cincinnati, where the Reds bombed Don Drysdale and four successors with a 20-hit attack which buried the leading Los Angeles Dodgers, 18-0.

With Milwaukee Braves winning a pair from the Astros and the Giants running their win streak to six games, it left the first four clubs only two games apart with the Giants losers of two fewer games than any of their rivals.

WHO ELSE?

Once again it was Willie Mays who kept the Giants going. He hit his 30th home run, the fifth in four games, and two singles as the St. Louis Cardinals took a 6-4 beating.

It continued the turnabout Mays started aftr a three-week slump which saw him get only six hits in 40 at bats. He has driven his batting average back to .328 with 10 hits five home runs and 10 runs batted in for his last four games.

It was Ed Mathews, rapping out five hits and driving in seven runs who led the Braves to their 8-5, 8-3 sweep over Houston. And, incidentally, it was Warren Spahn who got credit for the Giants' win.

Sparkling Sub-Par Round Makes Champion Medalist

Dr. Melvin Aspray of Tacoma quickly served fair warning yesterday at the Victoria Golf Club that he is ready to defend the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association championship.

Dr. Aspray sizzled around the Oak Bay links in the qualifying round to win medal honors handily with a three-under-par 66, going out in a brilliant 31 strokes and coming in with a 35.

It left him seven strokes ahead of Portland's Bill Blakeley, winner in 1962 and 1963, who shot a 73. Tom Green of Seattle, winner in 1961, was third among the qualifiers, sharing the position with Ed Murphy of Portland. Both had 74s.

OTHER CONTENDERS

Other qualifiers were Stan Stretton of Bellevue and Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria, making his first appearance and one of the prime favorites, at 75; Dr. Merle Taylor of Portland at 76; A. W. Johnson of Vancouver, Lee Steil of Seattle, Harold Nichols of Tacoma, Fran Andrews of Portland and Nelson Perkins of Tacoma at 77, and Harry Butler of Vancouver, Bob Abel of Tacoma and Dr. Ron Scott-Moncrieff and Pete McIntyre of Victoria at 78.

McIntyre won the grand championship in 1955 and Perkins was the "A" class winner last year.

By JIM TAYLOR

In a way, it was kind of sad.

Here were Victoria Shamrocks, beating Coquitlam Adanacs, 12-8, doing it mainly with home-grown players, and doing it exceedingly well.

The trouble was, they were doing it about four games too late.

Shamrocks finished their 10 games against Adanacs with a 2-8 record. Had they broken even with them on the season the clubs would now be tied for third place. As it is, the Rocks are 12 points back, and far, far out of the Inter-City Lacrosse League playoffs.

BOTH WEAKENED

Last night's win broke a 10-game Shamrock losing streak, and it was engineered on hustle on a night when both clubs were missing key players.

Shamrocks were without Bill Russell, Tom Collett, Nirmal Dillon, Larry Clarkson, Larry Biggs and Bob Harris. Adanacs left Ken Oddy, Rod Holmer, Ivan Stewart and Jack Barclay at home. So maybe they were about even.

Jim McNeill used the game to take a look at juniors Pat Green and Ron Zilkie, and also brought in Keith Lawrence and Bob Coutts from senior "B". Everyone looked as though he might have helped through this long and dismal season.

TOP PERFORMANCE

So did Jack Showers. The defenceman, who missed most of the schedule with injuries, scored two goals and checked as he always does, hard and well.

Shamrocks end their schedule with two games against New Westminster — here Wednesday and on the mainland Thursday. Depending on how second-place Vancouver fares against Adanacs twice this week, the Rocks may still have a say in who finishes first.

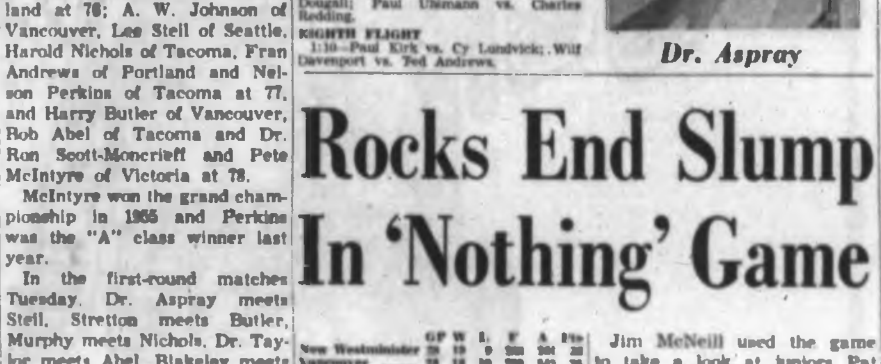

But for a club in last place, that's not much consolation.

Lose on Balk, 1-0

Hawaiian Heartbreak

No one ever lost tougher than Hawaii's little speedsters did yesterday in the Colt Baseball League's regional playdowns at Royal Athletic Park.

Playing against the much larger Oregon champions from Tri-Cities, Wash., in the final, the Islanders had it squared in the morning when they were blanked, 9-0, by Mike Sheeran. Then they lost it all, but it took a 14th-inning balk to deprive them of the chance to play in the divisional tournament which starts in Utah, Calif., this week.

The score was 1-0 in action that had been postponed from Sunday because of rain.

Fans will long remember the deciding game. Unable to muster much in the way of an attack, the Hawaiians were in trouble in almost every inning. But they kept coming up with big plays when they were needed the most and, one way or another, kept the game scoreless until the seventh extra inning.

COURTED DISASTER

Winners left 14 runners stranded before they got their run. They loaded the bases with one out in the sixth inning and failed to score, and then they failed to score after getting the bags loaded in the 10th inning before a player had been retired.

But the Hawaiians also missed some chances of their own. A great play by shortstop Jim Van Wyck made an out of their lead-off hitter in the sixth inning. Then Jyun Tsukuyama and Gerard Brilhante singled and John Williams walked to load them up. But two infield grounders got the forceouts which prevented the run.

PERCENTAGE TOLD

Hawaii left the bags loaded in the seventh and two on in the 13th before Brilhante made the mistake which decided it.

Van Wyck singled to open the inning and was sacrificed to second base, but quick handling of the ball kept him on third when Mic Hunt singled. There, Brilhante bluffed a throw to first base and it was over. Brilhante had taken over pitching chores in the 10th after southpaw Lawrence Akina had pitched the maximum nine innings—all scoreless.

JUST MISSED

Yet it still took a dubious call at first base to end it after 14. Dan Kimura led off with a hard ground ball which hit pitcher Tom Phipps, who ran it down and made a quick throw to first base. It appeared to pull the baseman off the bag but the call was out.

It was an important decision, depriving Hawaii of the chance to bunt the runner into scoring position for the two-out single Tsukuyama hit. Brilhante tried to make amends with a line-drive down the line which appeared headed for extra bases but third-baseman Tom Kerr managed to spear the ball for the series-ending out.

Nicklaus Reaches for Record

All the signs point to another record for big Jack Nicklaus. All the dollar signs, that is.

Nicklaus, who rammed home a 45-foot eagle putt on the 17th green Sunday to win the Philadelphia Golf Classic for the second straight year, has his eye on Arnold Palmer's single season money-winning mark. And he could break it this week in the PGA tournament.

The 25-year-old Masters champion earned $24,300 Sunday, giving him a total for the year of $114,000. That's just $14,340 behind Palmer's all-time record, and the way golf is paying off these days, a good showing in the PGA will give him enough to surpass it.

Nicklaus started Sunday's final round two strokes behind, and after 16 holes he was deadlocked at nine under par with Doug Sanders, Randy Glover and Jim Campbell.

But on the 17th, after hitting his drive into the woods behind some trees, Nicklaus parked his second shot on the green and sank that 45-footer for the eagle. He parred 18 and won by one stroke over Saunders and Campbell with an 11-under 277. Glover was fourth at 280.

One-Hit Pitching Wins for Beaulac

A leadoff double by Doug Couch in the first inning was all that stopped Dennis Beaulac from a no-hit, no-run game last night as the Senior Softball League's best-of-seven final opened at Heywood Avenue.

However, Beaulac went on to get his one-hitter, and a 1-0 victory for McLaren's Construction over Luckies, who got a fine pitching performance from outlucked Bob Haldane.

Haldane lost it in the sixth inning when Ron Brousseau tripled and scored after the catch on an outfield fly hit by Jim Wilson.

Second game of the series is scheduled for tonight, when the league will show its appreciation to fans by awarding of prizes to lucky ticket-holders.

Third Win in Row For Miss Bardahl

SEATTLE (AP) — Ron Musson, chased to the wire by Rex Manchester in Notre Dame, won the Gold Cup race in Miss Bardahl for the third consecutive time Sunday.

It marked the first time a triple win was scored in the unlimited hydroplane classic in 30 years.

Miss Bardahl, known in its home port of Seattle as the Green Dragon, averaged 110.655 miles an hour for the final heat. Notre Dame's average was 107.612.

BROKE TIE

The two had gone into the fourth and final heat of the 60-mile race tied in points with 1,100 each.

It was a two-boat battle for the full 15 miles, with Miss Bardahl getting away in front and Notre Dame moving into second place quickly after getting off the starting buoy in third spot.

More than a mile back on the three-mile Lake Washington course was Tahoe Miss in third place. U.S. 5 placed fourth and Such Crust IV was fifth in the climax heat.

Miss Madison, the other starter in the six-boat field, went dead in the water on the backstretch of the first lap. Madison had ranked fourth in point standings going into the payoff heat.

The last time a boat scored a third consecutive Gold Cup victory was in 1935, when George Reis drove El Agarto to a triumph at an average of 55 mph on New York's Lake George.

FIRE STOPS RACE

The final heat had to be rerun when Miss Exide caught fire on the first lap. Notre Dame was leading when red flares halted the race. Driver Bill Brow of the Exide was unhurt but the fire all but destroyed the hydroplane.

Bardahl and Notre Dame each had scored two firsts and a second in preliminary heats to enter the final test in a deadlock.

Exide was much in the running with 900 points when the mishap ended her racing day.

Alberni Aces Could Miss Team Chance

VANCOUVER (CP)—Neil Dirom and Larry Lehtonen of Alberni were among the missing when the Canadian national basketball team began workouts under coach Stuart Aberdeen.

Luke Moyls, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association said both were having trouble getting off work but that neither has said he couldn't make it.

Four other players of the 31 selected to try for the 12-man team were scratched because of inability to leave their jobs.

Golfers Share Medal Honors

Top honors in silver division of recent medal play at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club went to Edith McCormick and Kay Richardson who tied with a net 72.

Mrs. Dolly Williamson won the Bronze division with a net 78. "C" division winner was Dail Wilson with net 80.

Morrisons Reach Provincial Final

PORT ALBERNI (Special)—Victoria's Morrison Motors Sunday earned the right to defend the provincial junior men's softball championship next weekend by defeating View Royal, 5-1, in a final which went the distance.

View Royal had squared matters in the double-loss elimination playdown by winning the first game Sunday, 6-5, after reaching the final with an 11-3 morning victory over St. Anthony's of Port Alberni.

A three-run, last-inning rally kept View Royal alive in the first game against Morrison's but Rollie Clark came up with a five-hitter in the decider and pitched scoreless ball after the first inning.

He lost his first-round match to Barry Headland of Vancouver, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Braves to Drop Bundle

Scottish Start Soccer Practices

Canadian Scottish, first division Victoria and District Soccer League squad, will hold a practice at 7:00 p.m. tonight at Victoria High School.

All players interested are asked to turn out or phone team manager George Cox at EV 2-7877.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Stockholders of Milwaukee Braves of the National League were told Monday the club will lose at least $1,500,000 in Milwaukee this year where "the Braves continue to be attacked on all sides."

The stockholders voted to change the name of the team to the Atlanta Braves Inc., but in Wisconsin, they remain Milwaukee Braves. Everywhere else, they become Atlanta Braves.

Monday's action was taken primarily so that work could begin on plans to occupy Atlanta's new $18,000,000-stadium next season, particularly in connection with ticket printing.

The Braves have signed a 25-year contract with the Atlanta stadium authority beginning Jan. 1, 1966. The Braves had played in Milwaukee 12 years after moving from Boston.

Annual Surprise For Goad Stick

KELOWNA (CP)—A National Hockey League player was charged with running a red light here Sunday following a two-car collision in which two girls were injured.

RCMP charged John Albert McKenzie of New York Rangers after his car collided with another as he was headed home to Nanton, Alta.

The girls were taken to hospital, but were not believed seriously injured.

McKenzie, traded to New York this year by Chicago Black Hawkes, stopped here to visit former teammates Bobby and Dennis Hull, who competed in a mid-summer game Saturday night.

Ale is not another name for beer.

(It's brewed bottoms up.)

We know Ale is different from beer, because we brew both. Beer yeast works willingly at the bottom of the vat. But our stubborn Ale strain starts its career at the top. So we brew our Ale upside down—with a notable difference in flavour. Will you enjoy the difference? Only one way to prove it. Same way we brew it. Bottoms up.

Court Assails 'Bully Boys'

Magistrate William Ostler cracked down on "bully boys" by handing out a jail sentence and a heavy fine to two Island youths who appeared in city court Monday on assault charges.

Ronald Lamontagne, 18, of Duncan, was sentenced to three months in jail for punching David Gregory of 3240 Uplands Place in the mouth at the White Spot drive-in, Aug. 1.

PAY DAMAGES

He was ordered to pay $70 damages to Mr. Gregory, whose dentures were smashed, and he was also fined $15 for being intoxicated in a public place.

"These bully boy tactics must stop," Magistrate Ostler told him.

"It is disgraceful a decent young couple can't go to a drive-in without being subjected to obscenities and assault."

Hard words and a stiff fine were meted out to Frank W. Marsh, 19, of no fixed address, who pleaded guilty last week to punching a 65-year-old man in the mouth.

"Once again we have the conduct of street rowdies," said Magistrate Ostler.

"There is no justification at all for your conduct.

"It is the duty of the court to take steps to reverse the trend to contempt for law and order in this community.

FINED $200

"There is an increasing incidence of rowdyism in this area. It is an alarming thing to see, both for this court and the public."

Marsh was fined $200 and ordered to pay for the replacement of the complainant's dentures, broken in the assault.

Fair Winds Fail

Skippers in the annual regatta of the Esquimalt Squadron, Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association, were frustrated by adverse tides and an almost non-existent wind at the weekend.

There were 65 boats, a record, but this only made the situation worse. They couldn't get anywhere for lack of bow room. Last of the three-race series Sunday morning was called off.

Start of the weekend was not much better. The 12-mile race from Cadboro Bay to Munro Head was finally marked finish at Brotchie Ledge.

Results:

Only ones to finish were:

B Class—To Fish, Don Leuvsen, Royal Victoria Yacht Club, first; Mirimar, Clifford Woodcock, RVYC, second.

C Class—Daisy, Peter Coombs, RVYC, first; Blue Goose, C. R. Miles, RCNSA, second.

Winners of the Series racing were as follows:

Council Backs Smoke Protest

Esquimalt council Monday endorsed protests by citizens about smoke pouring out of Plumper Bay sawmill burners.

Council decided to send a letter to the Indian affairs branch protesting the smoke from the sawmill, which is located on Indian reserve land.

An 85-name petition sparked the council protest.

Organizers of the petition, meanwhile, were stepping up their efforts and circulating further petitions which they plan to present to officials in Ottawa.

Said Mrs. W. R. Walters of 908 Alexeander, who sent the petition to council but was unable to attend: "The smoke has just been terrible these last few days. We're certainly pleased that the council is backing us up on this."

★ ★ ★

She said a petition is now circulating in the View Royal area, in which visibility has at times been cut to less than a quarter mile this summer, particularly during the last few days.

"There's no reason why we should have our air polluted. Do you realize that we can't leave our windows open at night because of this smoke?

"We're not asking them to tear down the sawmill. After all, we don't want to deprive the Indians of their money, but we just want this smoke stopped."

★ ★ ★

She said she understood a second burner was added last summer, doubling the problem.

"It was only about four years ago that they put in the first one," she said. "How many more can we expect?"

She said the smoke blanket extends almost to Beaver Lake, and the proposed junior high school at Christie Point would bear the brunt of the cinders.

"It just can't be healthy, living in these conditions," she said.

★ ★ ★

It seemed to be a night for protests.

Half a dozen residents living near the Yarrows yards were unhappy with company plans to construct a steel storage area on property at 1394 Esquimalt Road.

They felt it would further deteriorate property values in the area, and that a 1967 zoning change notice was not advertised widely enough.

Now–B.C. Tel's TWX lets you cut the oceans down to size

We must feel rather sorry for the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. For 40 years or more they have been made to feel smaller and smaller. First, Alcock and Brown, then Lindbergh, cut the Atlantic down to size. Then, the "Queens" and "Empress" luxury cruise ships pared down travel times; and today, the arrogant jetliners whisk you to other continents between meals.

And now . . . B.C. TEL'S "dial-'n-type" TWX service across North America has been linked with the corresponding systems in Europe, Africa, Central and South America, Asia and Australia. In just seconds you can send your own messages across the oceans (as well as across the street!)

This means that you, as a B.C. businessman, can now have more than 128,000 potential customers, prospects and suppliers from 103 countries RIGHT AT YOUR TYPIST'S FINGERTIPS. This, of course, is over and above the 65,000 already available to you throughout B.C., Canada and North America.

Lawns Need Dressing

By M. V. CHESNUT

Every time I accept an invitation to a cocktail party or attend a reception, some stranger with a gleam in his eye backs me into a corner and proceeds to pick my brains. "Tell me, Mr. Chesnut," he says, "I've been wanting to ask you this for a long time: which is best for your lawn — to order a load of top dressing or to buy a bag of fertilizer?"

This, to me, is like asking which is the more important factor in sustaining human life, air or food. Both are needed. They fulfil two entirely different needs, and neither one is much good without the other. And so it is with fertilizer and top dressing.

* * *

Chemical fertilizer is the cheapest, easiest and most convenient way to supply your lawn grass with food, but because it lacks physical bulkiness, it doesn't do a thing to improve the soil texture. Bulky top dressing is not very rich in actual plant food, but there is nothing better for making the grass roots thoroughly comfortable and at home, and a congenial soil texture is just as important as food. Top dressing should be used in addition to chemical fertilizer, not as a substitute. As I have said so often before, each complements the other, and they go together like ham and eggs.

We have a fairly wide choice of materials for top dressing the lawn. Really first class topsoil is good. Very old manure, so well rotted as to be almost unrecognizable as such, is wonderful stuff for this job, or you can use a mixture of manure and topsoil. A lot of folks are worried about weed seeds in such materials, and nine times out of ten, you'll get them, but I wouldn't worry too much about this. On an established lawn, weeds are easy to eradicate with our modern selective weedkillers. Other good top dressings for a lawn are peat moss, vermiculite and perlite, and a calcined clay known as arcillite and sold under the trade name of Turface. These are all highly effective soil conditioners, all weed-free, but considerably more expensive than manure or topsoil.

* * *

Under certain conditions, coarse sand is a good top dressing for a lawn. If your lawn soil contains a high proportion of clay, horrid cracks will appear in dry weather as the clay shrinks, and there is no better way to combat this tendency than to brush lots of coarse sand into the cracks, spreading more of the same on the surface.

With manure or topsoil, or a mixture of the two, it is wise to buy it pulverized and sifted, or sift it yourself through a half-inch sieve. Sifted material is easier to spread and it works itself down nicely between the blades of grass. Besides, sifting will take out sticks and stones, and this is becoming increasingly important in this day of the rotary power mower.

* * *

While I am on this subject, I would like to issue a warning to all families with small children: keep a careful eye open for plastic toys in the lawn. I am told that of all the accidents caused by foreign objects thrown out from power mowers, over half are from the jagged, shrapnel-like fragments of plastic toys lying unnoticed in the grass.

I don't think it matters much what time of year a top dressing is applied, although the drier the weather and the drier the material, the easier it is to spread evenly. I have some preference for an autumn application, for we get periods when the ground freezes at night and thaws during the day, and this alternate freezing and thawing tends to work the dressing well down into the soil.

JACK SMITH Enters a Blue Period

Garage Floor Is Subjective Art

Like Gen. Eisenhower and the late Sir Winston Churchill, I have taken up painting as a hobby to ease my tensions and make it possible to face life's great decisions with serenity.

My genre, though, is different from Ike's and Sir Winston's. They painted walls, bridges, country houses and sylvan dells. This, I believe, is called "representative" art and is frowned on by today's avant garde.

* * *

My work is of a new movement that owes nothing either to the representative, abstract, pop or op styles. First, in my opinion, a man has to learn to handle his brush and mix his colors true, before attempting anything like soup cans, optical illusions or women with two noses.

I started out with a simple oblong and painted it what I could call a Mediterranean blue. It was the color of the Mediterranean when I first saw it on a sunny flight from Rabat to Naples some years ago.

* * *

What I painted was the garage door. That is, I actually painted the garage door, not a picture of the garage door. So when I was finished I not only had an excellent blue painting, but also a new coat of paint on the old garage door.

The astonishing thing was the psychological effect. As I painted the long smooth swaths of Mediterranean blue on the door my tensions drained away; a balmy zephyr seemed to lift the worries from my bent shoulders. I found myself whistling a tune.

"How silly it is," I thought, "to worry about things. The world is really quite blue and flawless."

* * *

When I finished I called my wife down to the garage. "Well, what d'you think of it?" I asked.

"It certainly looks better," she said.

"Better? Better than what?"

"Better than it did."

"Oh," I said. "You mean the door. What I mean is the painting. How do you like it as a painting?"

"As a painting?"

"Yes. Certainly. As an expression of my inner conflicts and tensions. As an act of creation. Art, you know, is supposed to be an extension of one's experience."

* * *

"I guess I like it all right," she admitted. "Why don't you try painting the front door of the house—in yellow."

"But blue's my color," I pleaded.

She's sympathetic, but she says she doesn't think we have anything else she wants painted blue right now. In a year or two though, I can paint the garage door again.

ART BUCHWALD Goes Undercover

Secret Weapon—Jokewise

The Egyptian newspaper Al Gumhurriya charged the other day that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is trying to "dominate Egypt and the whole Arab world." The paper said the CIA was not planting rumors but "inventing jokes against the state."

This is the first time that any reference has been made to the CIA's role in planting jokes in foreign countries, and now that the secret is out, I no longer feel any restraint in writing about it.

The U.S. Bureau of Jokes is a separate branch of the CIA, and is so powerful that its existence is unknown to everyone except four or five top American officials who pride themselves on having a sense of humor.

* * *

The head of the department is Horace Glum, and he was kind enough to speak to me providing I gave his side of what happened at the Bay of Pigs—jokewise, that is.

Glum told us that all jokes for CIA infiltration work are thought up in Washington and then sent out to his agents by code. The punch lines are sent separately, so in case the code is broken the joke is still protected.

"Suppose," said Glum, "we wanted to bring down a dictator in South America. We would send a joke to one of our agents and he would go to a bazaar or a cafe and say to a native, 'Did you hear the one about Dictator? He fell into the river and was saved by a peasant. The Dictator was so grateful he told the peasant he would do anything he could for him, and the peasant replied, "There is only one thing you can do for me. Don't tell anyone I saved you."'

"In two weeks the story will have made the rounds of the country and in three weeks the dictator will be thrown out on his ear."

"Have you ever used that story in actual practice?"

"We've brought down three governments with it so far, though I must admit it's getting to be quite a chestnut."

* * *

"What was the biggest success your department ever had?"

"Well, we came up with quite a good one a few years ago. It was a joke about Mao Tse-tung. He sent a telegram to Khrushchev saying, 'China starves. Please send food.' Khrushchev replied to Mao, 'Tighten your belts.' Mao replied to Khrushchev, 'Please send belts.'

"Our agent planted this story in Peking in hopes of toppling Mao, but the Chinese were very smart and they planted the story in Moscow. In two weeks, instead of Mao, Khrushchev was out! Surprised the hell out of all of us here."

"What was the one you planted that got the Egyptians so mad?"

"I'm not sure. We've planted so many there. I think it may have been the one about a newspaperman fleeing the United Arab Republic. A friend asked him why. 'There are two reasons,' the newspaperman said. 'First, the regime might change and all my friends will be killed.' 'That's impossible,' the friend said. The newspaperman replied, 'I told you I had two reasons'."

* * *

"That got to them?" I said.

"When it hits Aswan I don't give Nasser two more months."

"What about the Bay of Pigs?"

"We had some pretty good jokes to send in but President Kennedy wouldn't give us any air cover for them. By the time we got the jokes on the beach, the show was over."

"Do you think Cuba is lost to the free world?"

"I'm not too sure. What do you think of this one? Three guys are in prison in Havana. One says he's there because he was against Che Guevara. The other says he's there because he was for Che Guevara. The third man finally speaks up and says, 'I'm Che Guevara'."

I smiled. "If I was Castro, I'd resign."

Most of his big pictures have been made abroad.

James Bond producer, Cubby Broccoli, whom I usually bump into at Les Ambassadeur's in London, bumped into me at Paramount, where he was lunching with veteran actor Bruce Cabot, who used to be Errol Flynn's big buddy before they fell out over finances.

"I read in your column," said Cubby, "that Sean Connery wants one million pounds ($2,800,000) from me to sign a new contract. Look, I'll work for him and have him pay me the million pounds. He has two more pictures to make for us. The next Bond is On Her Majesty's Service, and then we will talk about a new deal."

Singing Goes Far Better With Welsh Leek Soup

By PATRICK O'NEILL

How do you make Cawl Cenyn?

The dish is better known as cream of leek soup, but whatever you call it, Victoria promoter Ken Gravenor needs a good recipe.

He wants to feed it to 80 hungry Welshmen, coming here to sing on Sept. 15.

Mr. Gravenor has applied for permission to use Central Junior High School auditorium to seat the Welshmen and fans of good singing who want to hear the Pendyrus Male Choir from Rhondda Valley in Wales.

SPECIAL DISH

Nick North of Imperial Inn has offered to serve special Welsh dishes along with the regular menu at the Inn, but he needs a good recipe for Cawl Cenyn.

Mr. Gravenor says a big reception for the 80 voices and conductor Glynne Jones will be held in the Mayfair Room of Woodward's shopping centre.

Tickets for the show will be on sale by next Wednesday, and Mr. Gravenor is expecting a brisk sale among sons and daughters of Wales.

BIG WINNERS

"This choir has won many festivals, and has become famous in the British Isles in its 41 years of existence," he said.

"When the famous basso Chaliapin heard a performance by Pendyrus Choir in Wales some years ago, he jumped onto the stage shouting Bravo, Bravo."

Three buses will bring Courtenay Welshmen to the concert. There will be two buses from Duncan, three from Nanaimo, and probably a bus from Campbell River.

LIVE MUSIC

Mr. Gravenor is presenting the concert in close co-operation with the Victoria Cymrodorion Society.

"They feel this is a great opportunity to increase their efforts to keep alive the music, language and customs of Wales," Mr. Gravenor said.

Many Islanders had made arrangement to see the choir in their concert in Vancouver on Sept. 14.

But aside from transportation costs, Mr. Gravenor says he will charge $1.50 admission, half the price of the Vancouver concert.

TICKET SALE

After the evening concert there will be a number of small parties arranged in private homes to give the visitors a chance to see Victoria life.

Persons interested in entertaining the men from the Rhondda Valley can contact Mr. Gravenor by writing to 712 Yates Street, or they can contact the Cymrodorion Society.

Staunch Scot Jack Dirom, from Edinburgh, says he has no racial discrimination, and will sell tickets to the concert at his White Heather Gift Shop.

Says Jack, "Some of my best friends are Welsh!" But he did not offer a recipe for Cawl Cenyn.

Victoria Smile-Show-man Gerry Gosley goes through special performance of his act for CBC radio technician Alf Spence. Recording was made for broadcast on national network Aug. 24. "The CBC has us under the classification 'art'—which might be a shock to the McPherson Playhouse people," said Mr. Gosley. The jab gave him last word in a thrust and parry session that began when Smile Show was eased out of civic theatre.—(Robin Clarke)

Asks for Enforcement

City Hall Tough On Park Parking

If people won't walk 200 yards to see a ball game, aldermen aren't much interested in increasing parking space around the softball diamond in Beacon Hill Park.

Furthermore, they have ordered police to enforce parking prohibitions so that the ever-encroaching wave of automobiles will not damage the trees and grass in one of the city's beauty spots.

A spokesman for the Victoria Senior Men's Open Softball League pointed out that big crowds attended the games at the park, many of them senior citizens.

NOT FAIR

It was not fair to make them walk as far as they now had to see the play.

However, parks superintendent Clifford Bate had another story. A survey was made, he said, and it showed that no spectator had to park more than 200 yards away from the ball diamond.

"The whole trouble these days is that no one wants to walk more than a few feet," said Ald. Cecil Parrott.

CUT DOWN PARKING

"The whole idea over the years has been to cut down on parking in Beacon Hill Park, not increase it," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Mr. Bate added that boulevard and trees were being damaged on Heywood Avenue now by parking, and police were not enforcing restrictions.

The matter will be further considered on receipt of a report from the parks department.

Sinatra Holiday Lingers

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (UPI)—Frank Sinatra's rented 168-foot yacht lay at anchor off this island community Monday amid indications the crooner and his teen-age sweetheart will stay here at least through Thursday.

Sinatra accompanied actress Rosalind Russell to the Martha's Vineyard airport where she boarded the balding singer's twin-engine jet for a flight to an undisclosed destination.

DRIVER TALKS

Taxi cab driver Herb Tilton said he picked up Miss Russell, Sinatra and two other men, one of them apparently Miss Russell's husband, at a waterfront home. Tilton said he overheard Sinatra tell the actress that he hoped to see her "here Thursday."

Sinatra's young girlfriend, 19-year-old Mia Farrow, apparently stayed aboard soaking up the sun on Sinatra's yacht Southern Breeze.

The vessel docked here Sunday night but left shortly after midnight for its anchorage a half mile offshore.

SWIM OUT

Three boys about 10 years old swam out to the Southern Breeze as a stunt and managed to climb aboard the sleek craft. However Sinatra's security force spotted the youngsters and politely asked them to leave.

Cab driver Tilton said that he and another taxi operator took Sinatra, Miss Farrow and other members of their party to a restaurant Sunday night. Tilton and the other driver were given $10 tips by Sinatra for their service.

Zoo Tryst

Gone Ape!

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Love can overcome great obstacles, even in a zoo.

The Memphis zoo monkey island is a placid place at night with most of the population snoozing in the grass after a hard day playing and grabbing peanuts.

But one female rhesus monkey can be seen nightly primping for a rendevous with a big Barbary ape across the water.

Each evening the little monkey plunges into the moat surrounding her island, swims to the other side and inches her way up the sheer six-foot concrete wall.

There follows a moonlight tryst with her steady date at his cage. Stout wire separates the two, but it doesn't seem to chill the romance.

At dawn the love chatter ceases. The female runs to the railing — gives a last backward glance — and plunges into the moat.

"It's the craziest thing I ever heard of," says zoo director Robert Mattlin.

Mattlin says he has no intention of interfering with the romance. Zoo keepers had been worried about the lonely ape, who has no mate. Now he seems to be doing fine.

Siren's Wail Ends Reunion

TORONTO (CP) — With the wail of an air raid siren, 240 former air force prisoners of war in Germany ended a three-day convention Sunday. The siren formally signalled the end of the reunion at a mass picnic on a farm at nearby King City.

Theatre Needs Wide Interests

By IAN ARROL

Students interested only in the theatre and fine arts lack the broad involvement necessary to develop as true artists and craftsmen, one of America's most knowledgeable men of the theatre said in Victoria Monday night.

Jo Mielziner, stage designer for 204 Broadway productions, was a Renaissance 65 guest speaker at the Phoenix Theatre, University of Victoria.

He made his comment in answer to a question from a student who asked if a person interested in the theatre should have to take "such things as math."

CONTROVERSIAL

Mr. Mielziner has been the subject of much controversy over the years for his innovations in design and lighting. He is co-designer of the new Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts in New York.

He did the designs for Arthur Miller's After the Fall and, earlier, his Death of a Salesman; also such musicals as The King and I and Carousel.

Only in the field of stagecraft, he felt, was there a modern renaissance in the theatre.

MANY CAUSES

"The poor state of drama today" has as causes—the output of too many new plays with practically no attention to the classics; the loss of good writers to Hollywood, radio and TV; the pressures of labor unions and artistic organizations.

"Labor unions are basically interested in less work and more money. The pressure of other organizations is more subtle.

"Among us all we are choking the theatre."

FUTURE ASSURED

But he felt the future of theatre is assured because theatre offers a different experience.

"Films, radio and TV communicate one way — nothing happens except acceptance.

"A theatrical experience acts three ways: actors to audience, audience to actors and audience to audience.

LURE FOR WRITERS

"In the theatre a person gets something from his neighbor." A line read in manuscript or heard on TV might result in a chuckle. With an audience "you rock with laughter."

A hope for the future is that the "exciting rash of new theatre buildings" might lure back "the exciting young writers — with the re-creation of classics in a new and exciting way."

Public Forum Hears Nine Candidates

A restaurant in the McPherson Playhouse is unfair competition to the many restaurants within a two-block radius, said Charles Kingsfield, one of nine candidates for city alderman addressing a public forum Monday.

Mr. Kingsfield said the restaurant would be tax-free while the other restaurants in the area were all paying taxes and were rarely overloaded with customers.

Candidates are seeking to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Ald. Austin Curtis. The by-election will be held Aug. 12 in the city.

INTEGRATION

Former alderman Mike Griffin favored integration of the Greater Victoria Recreation Committee to get federal recreation grants and said he was prepared to work in co-operation with other councils on smoke, streets, and cultural problems.

He said on council previously, he served as chairman of the transportation and traffic committee, which decided to build the two downtown parking garages, on the public works committee, on the water board and as trustee of the Royal Oak Cemetery.

He was also on council when decision for construction of Centennial Square was made.

"I shared in the forward-looking attitude which has brought Victoria to its present prosperity," he said.

YOUTH STUDY

Speaking to the 70 people attending the forum sponsored by the Victoria Jaycees and the University of Victoria Activities Council, Percy Frampton promised to study the problems of lack of facilities for youths aged 14 to 18.

He felt Victoria was "missing the boat" and needed a tourist convention centre and said, if elected, he would investigate the possibilities.

Frederick Bevis was one of many who dismissed the possibility of reducing taxes but favored a rapid and continuing transit system while Wesley Dickie was the only candidate who came out in favor of lower taxes.

ENOUGH TAXES

He felt the city had adequate revenue and that taxes from new buildings would take care of any increase in cost of operations.

Two candidates based their platforms on community planning.

Victor Williams said lack of planning was costing the city $40,000 a year to operate the Johnson Street Bridge and lack of planning was causing pollution of the Gorge.

"Tomorrow my daughter and your daughter will pay for what we don't plan for," he said.

While Henry Fanthorpe favored community housing and said the "proposed Blanshard Street development should be promoted."

LIAISON

A program to "save downtown businesses" was proposed by Frederick Martin including "getting heavy trucks off Government Street," removing all 4 p.m. parking restrictions in the city, working for a new tax structure, and "taking the white leophant out of the McPherson Playhouse."

Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie said she would work to get the Jerry Gosley Show in the McPherson Playhouse next year, work on better liaison between council and school board, back proposals by the Section 150 Committee to "clean up pollution on the newsstands."

When questioned from the floor, she could not name any specific publication under attack.

'Restaurant Unfair Competition'

Saanich May Ask Opinion

Saanich may submit revised commercial recreation zoning proposals to a public hearing, planner Tom Losey said Monday.

"We're not trying to force any regulations down anybody's throat," he said. "We brought the first proposals forward to see what the reaction would be, and we're only interested in producing regulations satisfactory to most people."

Imports Cut Potato Price

Potato prices are going down as more and more import potatoes come into the province.

The price at Vancouver dropped $25 a ton Monday as Washington potatoes hit the market, and prices generally were $80 a ton as compared to the $180 that California potatoes brought in earlier in the year.

Prices are expected to drop still more when Alberta potatoes reach B.C.

Strike Vote 'Probable'

A strike vote by 60 Victoria brewery workers will be held "probably next week," union secretary George Parkes said Monday.

Local 280 of the International Union of Brewery, Flour Cereals, Soft Drinks and Distillery Workers of America is seeking a 10 per cent wage increase on a two-year contract.

Members of Local 289 work for Lucky Lager Brewing Company, which has offered a five-per-cent increase retroactive to Jan. 1, and a further four per cent increase next year.

This offer, plus increased sick benefits, was recommended by a conciliation board and rejected by the union.

Job-Filling Sets Record

A record number of jobs was filled by the National Employment Service in Victoria in the last 12 months.

During the year ending June 30, the office was notified of 19,385 jobs and was able to fill 16,731 of them.

The employment branch, received 43,483 applications seeking jobs, including part-time and casual work, during the same 12 months.

Somewhere There's a Party

Somewhere in the Victoria area, break-in artists may be having themselves a real party.

Gordon Beck, 1750 Newton, and his family were in Vancouver over the weekend.

When they returned early Monday they found thieves had entered their home through a rear window.

The thieves got no money, but to drown their sorrows they took a bottle of vodka, a bottle of wine, and a partly full bottle of gin.

Man Drowns In River

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — A dredge accident in the Grand Trunk Mission River here Monday resulted in the death of one man and minor injuries to another.

A father of eight children, Antoine Lemieux, 53, of Gaspe, Que., was drowned when the dredge boom swept him and Claude Denis, 25, from the deck of the dredge. They had been taking soundings.

Chief's Son Dies in Crash

LAKE COWICHAN — An inquest into the Sunday traffic death of Peter Lawrence Albany, 18, opened at Hirst Funeral Chapel Monday night with viewing of the body.

The inquest hearing will be held at Lake Cowichan Monday. Mr. Albany died instantly at 6:25 a.m. near the village of Lake Cowichan when his car went out of control in a curve on the Cowichan Lake road and crashed into a power pole.

ALONE IN CAR

A wrecker was needed to free the body. Mr. Albany was travelling alone toward Duncan. He had been employed at Hillcrest Sawmill at Mesachie Lake a few miles west of Lake Cowichan.

The dead youth was the son of Songhees Indian band chief and Mrs. John Peter Albany, 1341 Craigflower Road, Victoria. He is survived by one older brother, Garry, three younger brothers, Gene, Frank and Nicholas, one older sister, Wendy and two younger sisters, Jacqueline and Renee.

A former resident of Victoria, where he was born, Peter Albany had been living in the Cowichan Lake district.

Two Jailed In Car Theft

Two Victoria residents were sent to jail Monday after appearing in Duncan court on charges relating to theft of a car.

David Gene Wood, 23, was jailed for three months for possession of a stolen car, prowling at night and attempted gasoline theft, while James Schmit, 17, received nine months for similar offences plus car theft.

$2,000,000 Contract

Hospital in Comox Starts Expansion

COMOX—St. Joseph's Hospital here has become the Comox Valley's regional general hospital.

Shortly before noon Monday, representatives of the hospital signed a contract for an almost $2,000,000 expansion at the hospital.

GOVERNMENT SIGNS

The provincial government representative also signed, which means the hospital will get major federal provincial grants.

Of the amount needed, $650,000 is being raised by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

William Moore, chairman of the hospital board, said this is definitely not a case of public funds going to a private hospital.

'ONE HOSPITAL'

"This is now the Comox Valley's regional hospital," he told the Colonist, "government representatives made it clear they will support only one regional hospital, and this is it!"

The announcement followed one of the most confused and controversial issues seen in the valley for years.

In a vote July 20 owner-electors refused permission for taxation for the purpose of building the expansion.

DEADLINE PASSES

Last weekend the deadline date for signing the tender with Laing Construction, Vancouver, came and went with no announcement. It was reported the sisters were taking another look at the situation. They had announced the previous Wednesday at a meeting with Dan Campbell, municipal affairs minister, that they were willing to supply the full amount of the money required, if provincial and federal grants would still be forthcoming.

Today's announcement put an end to speculation and uncertainty.

Construction will start immediately.

Kindergarten Rooms Ready In September

Kindergarten rooms at Craigflower, Monterey and Quadra elementary schools will be ready in September, Greater Victoria School Board trustee Peter Bunn said Monday.

Prefabricated portable units were ordered by the board June 21 after protests by Oak Bay mothers over an earlier decision to defer the kindergartens.

The board spent $19,969 on them.

Completion deadline is Aug. 20, said Mr. Bunn, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.

CITY OF VICTORIA
VOTE for ALDERMAN FRED W. MARTIN

1. I ask to be elected to City Council because I honestly feel, with my practical business administrative experience, I could bring some new life and ideas into good policies. Especially, I do want to represent all the people of the city.

2. I will certainly urge, a stepped-up program to save the downtown business core.

3. I will advocate vigorous efforts to relieve downtown traffic problems. I am in favor of one-way streets as recommended by the engineering department. I will strongly recommend the removal of all . . . after 4 p.m. parking restrictions which do nothing more than drive people out of the city.

4. I feel a complete new tax structure MUST BE PLANNED, AND, AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

5. I feel a preventative maintenance policy is the only course any administration should follow.

6. No administration can carry on its full responsibilities without a feeling of co-operation and willingness with the surrounding municipalities to build a much better . . . Greater Victoria.

7. I will do whatever I can to take—the white elephant, out of the McPherson Theatre. It can be operated to pay its own way and should not be a burden on the tax payers of this city.

8. I will do whatever I can do to set up the mechanics to increase within city living. One way would be to deal with rundown housing conditions in the many areas. Today, we are faced with a declining population. This need not be so, if City Hall would become more progressive in urban renewal.

9. Tourism should triple within a few years. Some one that knows the value of this Number 1 industry should be on the City Council to see that we get full mileage for every dollar we spend.

10. I will refuse to take any kind of defeatist attitude towards industrial development for our area. Hundreds of our young people finishing school cannot find jobs. Something can be, done and must be done without delay.

11. I feel most sincerely many people who are on welfare and could work and earn a few dollars should be able to do so without their welfare cheques being jeopardized. Surely they could use a few extra dollars for the better care of their loved ones. Also, much more could be done for our senior citizens.

12. [illegible] administration with a sincerity to serve all the people equally; with no special privileges or favors to anyone will always be my stand.

Slick Highways Exact Toll Three Injured

Three persons are in hospital, one critically injured, as rain-slicked roads took their toll in two major accidents in the Greater Victoria area Sunday.

In critical condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital is Graham Verley, Madrona Avenue, who suffered head injuries in a head-on collision of his small car with a car driven by John B. Corbett of Sidney.

Mr. Corbett was taken to Rest Haven Hospital, treated and released Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Varley was driving south and Mr. Corbett north, when the collision occurred just south of Beacon Avenue on the Patricia Bay Highway.

The impact wrenched the engine from the rear of Mr. Verley's car and tossed it into a ditch.

TOURISTS HURT

Two young American tourists were in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital Monday night with leg injuries suffered Sunday when the rented motorcycle they were riding was in collision with a B.C. Hydro bus at Fort and Yates.

Richard K. Worthington, 17, of Bellevue, Wash., was driving the light-model motorcycle east on Yates. The bus was being driven west on Fort by Edward O. Olson, 667 Beaver Lake Road.

After the collision, Debra Marsh, 20, of Eugene, Oregon, Mr. Worthington's passenger, was torn from the motorcycle as her right leg was trapped between the big right rear dual wheels of the bus.

The bus dragged her for about 47 feet.

Miss Marsh suffered a compound fracture and lacerations, and Mr. Worthington a broken leg.

Both cyclists ended up underneath the bus. None of the bus passengers was injured.

HIT TRUCK

Mrs. Ann Haas, 4123 Interurban, five-year-old son, Tony, and Beverly Kinney, 11, of Duncan, were driving south on Quadra when their car was in collision with a car driven west on View by Howard S. Cameron, 1730 Richardson.

After the initial impact, both vehicles collided with a truck stopped at a stop sign in the eastbound traffic.

Mrs. Haas, Tony and Beverly were taken to hospital.

Four Resign

Executive Divided On Gorge Proposals

A split in the executive of the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Association resulted in the resignation of four directors Monday night.

Resignations of Dorothy Bell, Mary P. Shepherd, A. F. Thommasen and R. E. Trustman were accepted by a vote of 47 to 37.

The resignations were submitted with a "deep sense of regret" after the majority of the executive went on record as supporting improvement and beautification of the Gorge in general.

FACTION ACCUSED

The motion added that any plan advanced (for improvement of the Gorge) shall be subject to complete investigation before the association lends its support.

The letter of resignation charges one faction of the executive with supporting a development plan for the waterways submitted by Lloyd Smith and Richard Faulks to the communal committee.

The four executive members resigned because they believed the prime purpose of the association was to oppose pollution.

The resignation of James R. Bell as chairman of the fact-finding committee on Gorge pollution was also accepted. He resigned because of the time-consuming nature of the work.

UNITED STAND

Early in the meeting Ald. Geoffrey Ellerton urged the meeting to take a united stand on the Gorge issue.

The meeting was told the department of fisheries in Nanaimo had expressed a desire to run tests on the Gorge but had been unable to get a boat up.

Dennis Henrickson told the meeting he had been able to obtain a suitable boat and would be in touch with the department in Nanaimo.

First Six Votes Cast In City's Byelection

Six votes were cast Monday in the first of three advance polls prior to Thursday's aldermanic byelection.

Voting continues today and Wednesday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the office of city clerk and chief electoral officer Frank Hunter.

Voting on Thursday will be at the Senior Citizens' Activity Centre in Centennial Square, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Ousted Head Defies Suspension

Superintendent Charles Etchells said Monday night he is re-assuming control of the juvenile detention home in defiance of an order suspending him.

Mr. Etchells, who was informed Saturday by city manager Dennis Young that he had been suspended from duty pending investigation of incidents which occurred while he was away on vacation, said he would continue his duties until he heard from the intermunicipal sub-committee.

He took his stand—despite being told that he and his wife Joyce must not enter the home, which adjoins their living quarters—after consulting lawyers David Hummel and Dermod Owen-Flood.

He said, "I have assumed control right now, and I intend to assert my authority in the morning. If Mr. Young appears, he will find the doors closed to him."

Stepson Charged

Meanwhile city police have charged Kenneth Russell, Mr. Etchells' stepson, with pointing a .22-calibre revolver at two of the youths during a fracas at the home last Tuesday.

Russell, also suspended from his duties as night supervisor, is to appear in city magistrate's court on the charges Wednesday.

Mr. Etchells said Monday night he had informed acting superintendent Charles Ball he was resuming his duties.

He also mailed copies of his own "interim report" on last week's incidents to juvenile detention home committee members and the heads of the four councils represented on the committee—Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

The 43-year-old former chief petty officer in the Royal Navy, superintendent at the home for two years, says he was ordered to hand his report to Mr. Young but refused because he disputes the city manager's authority in this connection.

No Reason Given

Mr. Etchells, who claims he was given no reason for his suspension, also challenges that the committee acted in a regular manner in ordering it.

A letter went out to heads of councils and committee members as well as Mr. Young by lawyers David Hummel and Dermod Owen-Flood says in the circumstances Mr. and Mrs. Etchells (who acts as matron at the home) "would be derelict in their duty if they did not continue their work."

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich said Monday night that Mr. Young had been acting with the committee's authority and that the committee thus met Saturday and ordered the suspension of Mr. Etchells was legally constituted.

"He is an employee. It is we who are responsible to the electorate for the proper and careful management at the home," the reeve said.

Informed of Mr. Etchells' latest stand, Mr. Curtis declared: "Sooner or later it will have to be determined who is in control."

Dean Going To Conference

Dr. Alex Wood, newly-appointed dean of arts and science at the University of Victoria, will attend a conference in England this September in connection with the International Biological Year.

Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan, dean of graduate studies, will accompany Dr. Wood, who arrived recently from Vancouver, where he taught at the University of British Columbia.

Drastic Hospital Plan Proposed for Area

By IAN SMITH

A bold new five-year plan for hospital reorganization in the Greater Victoria area was unveiled at Esquimalt council meeting Monday.

- Under the proposal, local hospitals would do away with individual appeals and would seek a flat $5,732,500 for five years through an increase in the mill rate of all those utilizing the service.
- All areas from Sooke through the Saanich Peninsula would be incorporated into a hospital improvement district similar to 60 other such districts throughout the province.
- Major construction would be undertaken at most local hospitals, including a complete renovation of the Sidney Resthaven Hospital.

The plan is the result of over a year's work by the Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council, which is comprised of 27 people from six hospitals and the Victoria Medical Society. Hospitals included are St. Joseph's; Royal Jubilee, Veteran's, Gorge Road, Resthaven and Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Serious Shortage

The study revealed a serious shortage of beds in the Greater Victoria area, and hinted that in addition to renovation and expansion of Resthaven, officials have begun to consider construction of a new hospital in the Langford area.

The study was presented to Esquimalt council by hospitals planning president J. W. Casey and George Masters, administrator of the Royal Jubilee.

The study was initiated due to the serious shortage of bed space. It was found that there is an average occupancy rate of almost 90 per cent, "which is considerably above the rate a hospital should experience," according to the report.

160 Needed

There is a need for 160 new beds at the present time, not counting 258 beds that are considered obsolete.

Faced with this problem, the planning council decided to try to completely revise the financing of local hospitals.

"There just isn't the money around for an appeal for funds," said Mr. Masters.

1½ to 3 Mills

The $5,732,500 represents only capital expenditure, not operating costs. Total cost of hospitals throughout the next five years is estimated at $13,573,600, but much of this money is made up through federal and provincial grants.

Under the plan, Mr. Masters said all those participating in the service would pay anywhere from 1½ to 3 mills, depending on the type of financing desired, whether long-term or short-term.

Should councils decide to go ahead with the scheme, a plebiscite would be held.

Favorable

The plan met a favorable reception at Esquimalt, and Reeve A. C. Wurtele commented that it would put an end to "hit and miss" financing.

Renovation of Resthaven would increase its capacity from 50 beds to 120, at a cost of about $2,640,000.

"That's $22,000 a bed," said Mr. Masters, "but it has to be done, and it should be done first.

"After that is finished we would fix up St. Joseph's, the Jubilee, and Gorge Road.

"That would pretty well take us to the end of the five years, and then we could begin thinking about a brand-new hospital in the Langford area."

Nine Hurt In Crash

A two-car collision Monday sent nine people to hospital suffering from minor injuries.

Police say a car driven east on Hollywood Crescent by Darrel Watchman, 1239 Chapman, was in collision with one driven west on Hollywood Crescent by Elizabeth Blascheck of 1856 Grandview.

Treated and released from St. Joseph's Hospital were Mr. Dudley Blascheck, Sharman Blascheck, 11, Tony Blascheck, 12, and members of the Harding family — John, 33, Caroline, 31, Gay, 8, Kim, 6, Bill, 4, and Chris, 1. All were in the Blascheck car, police said.

Postmen

Vote Result In Doubt

Will Victoria's postal workers follow the Vancouver line in accepting Judge J. C. Anderson's pay proposals?

"It is hard to say. I feel we lack information," commented Jack Bell, Victoria Letter carrier chief, Monday night.

Mr. Bell appeared surprised that Montreal mailmen decided to return to work after extracting a promise that a higher shoe allowance would be considered for letter carriers.

'SOMETHING ELSE'

"I have a feeling there is something else that has not come to light," he said. "It seems hard to believe that after staying out such a long time, they went back on the strength of the allowance promise."

Local union officials have indicated they are unhappy about the $510 to $550 raise offer not being made retroactive to October, 1964.

NOT HERE YET

Ballot forms for Victoria workers to vote on a national referendum had not yet reached the city Monday night.

Mr. Bell said it was intended to call a meeting of the men as soon as they were received. The referendum deadline is Aug. 20.

Public Works Talks Delayed

Sidney village council Monday postponed a scheduled debate on its public works program.

Its regular meeting was taken up with correspondence and routine business, said chairman A. A. Cormack.

Causeway Confusion Investigated by City

The trouble with the "gentlemen's agreement" on the Causeway is that some of the parties to the pact are less than gentlemanly.

For that reason the city is investigating the possibility of legislation which will allow it to allocate space, rather than the present system of allocating areas to such businesses as taxicabs.

Ald. A. W. Toone told a meeting of the parks committee Monday that he had received several complaints of people being solicited on the Causeway.

Central Saanich Faces Water Bill

Central Saanich, which has been drawing about 300,000 gallons of free water a day from city-owned Elk Lake for the past four years, will probably be asked to pay in about three months.

City council water works committee decided Monday to recommend to council that an agreement be reached charging five cents a thousand gallons for the commodity which costs Victoria ratepayers 13 cents a thousand gallons, treated and under pressure.

City Engineer James Garnett said the five-cent rate for untreated water was fair, because it cost Central Saanich at least eight cents to make it fit for human consumption and pump it to consumers.

In Central Saanich, neither acting reeve A. K. Henstreet nor water works committee chairman Charles Mollard would comment on how the Victoria proposal might affect their municipality.

The matter will be discussed at a Central Saanich council meeting tonight.

If Victoria approves of the committee recommendations, and it probably will, steps will be taken to order a meter at a cost of from $2,000 to $3,000. Its cost and cost of installation will be charged to Central Saanich. This will take about three months.

'NOT GENTLEMANLY'

"We could start charging right now on an estimated consumption basis, but I think the gentlemanly thing to do would be to wait until the meter is in operation," Mr. Garnett told aldermen.

A provision will be built into the agreement that if the withdrawal of water from the lake jeopardizes its recreational value in any way, the contract will be nullified.

DAILY LIMIT

There is no danger of a shortage of water in the lake as long as withdrawals do not exceed 1,000,000 gallons a day.

If Central Saanich does not like the proposed five-cent figure set by Victoria, it can go to the provincial Public Utilities Commission, Mr. Garnett said. Because there is this appeal, care has been taken to arrive at a fair rate.

"Doesn't this municipality owe the city money for the years it has been drawing water from the lake? What about the back pay?" asked Ald. Millard Mossey.

"I hardly think the PUC would go for that. Furthermore, it did offer to pay us—$1,500 a year, I think—some time ago—and we turned the offer down. You can't really make a deal like this retroactive," said Mayor Wilson.

Gaglardi Pledges Sidney Overpass

Highways Minister Gaglardi said Monday the village of Sidney will get the pedestrian overpass it is seeking on the Patricia Bay Highway.

But he wouldn't put a time limit on the project.

The minister told reporters after meeting a Sidney delegation on the question:

"The people of Sidney must be looked after and will be looked after. They might not get all they want; but they will get all they need."

MANPOWER SHORT

Mr. Gaglardi said his department was "inundated" by work. He had hoped his men would be busy now on widening of the Pat Bay Highway, but the shortage of manpower had delayed the start.

The project is still scheduled for this summer, but he couldn't say when it will begin.

Meanwhile, the minister said, long-range planning for a divided freeway linking Victoria with the airport and Swartz Bay ferry terminal is continuing.

OVERPASS

But this is still "a few years off," he said.

Must Sidney wait until then for its overpass? the minister was asked.

"The question is now under study. If it's needed, the study will show it," he replied.

Our Man In The Kitchen

—HYMAN GOLDBERG—

A fellow was driving along the highway in his open sports car, with his beautiful pedigree dog, a Doberman Pinscher, sitting in the seat next to him and even though he was going well within the speed limit, a motorcycle cop made him pull over to the side of the roadway.

"What's wrong? officer," he asked, "what did I do wrong?" The cop motioned to the dog. "I just want to know what kind of dog that is," said the cop, so the fellow told him, with a feeling of great relief which didn't last very long.

"Has he got a license?" asked the cop. "No," said the fellow, and the cop became very angry with him, because the fellow added: "he doesn't need a license because I do all the driving." A policeman's lot is not a happy one, and it never pays to be smart-alecky with one, because they all have very sensitive natures. Another lesson for today is:

BAKED CHICKEN AND WILD RICE CASSEROLE

Four and one-half to 5 pound chicken, cut up, 1 tablespoon oil or butter or fat from chicken (melted), 1 cup minced onions, 1 large green pepper (chopped), 2 (or more) cloves garlic, one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 1 cup consomme (1 cube in boiling water) 1 cup dry white wine, 1½ to 2 teaspoons salt, black pepper, ground fresh, ⅛ cup cheese, grated (any kind you like) 1 cup almonds, blanched, slivered and toasted, 1½ cups wild rice (boiled 20 minutes in 5 cups water and well-drained) 2 tablespoons parsley (minced).

Wash and dry thoroughly all the chicken parts. (Save the giblets and liver for use another time in making a fricassee or soup.) Hot up the chicken fat, oil or butter and saute the minced onions, garlic and pepper until they are soft. Remove from pan. Over medium heat, fry the chicken pieces until they are well-browned all over. (You won't need any fat for this; do it in the skillet in which the onions, etc., were sauteed, and there will be enough fat on the chicken. Just lift the pieces from time to time with a spatula, so they don't stick to the skillet too much.)

Remove the chicken parts from the skillet and when you can handle them remove the skin, throw it away, cut the meat off the bones and throw the bones away. In a casserole, combine the tomato sauce, consomme and wine. Add the salt and pepper, stir, put the chicken meat into the casserole and add to it the onion-green pepper which you sauteed a while ago, spoon in half the cheese, half the almonds and all the wild rice and sprinkle with the parsley.

Stir it around in the casserole, getting it all combined thoroughly. Sprinkle with the remaining cheese, top with the rest of the almonds and bake it, covered, for 25 minutes in oven preheated to 350 degrees. Take cover off and bake for another 15 minutes. This should serve 4 to 6 people and if there's any left that's fine, because refrigerated and served heated a couple of days later it seems improved.

Satisfy Hungry Sailors With Picnic-Style Menu

Comes the week-end, some people take to the waterways the way others do the highways. And a picnic-style meal served aboard the family boat doesn't differ too much from the one served from the tail-gate of a station wagon. According to the home economists it just requires a little more forethought and planning, since there is less room to spread out.

Paper plates, cups, insulated bags, a cooler, and bucket all help to make a meal that is shipshape. If you are going to spend the day cruising, the wise mate does most of her work while still ashore.

The Boater's Beef Buns are a special treat for sailors. They can be made the day before. Marinating the steak pieces in a delicious spaghetti sauce gives the meat a wonderful, spicy flavor. And when the spaghetti sauce is made from a mix, it couldn't be easier to prepare. Served on a bun, the built-in sauce eliminates the need for taking along a ketchup bottle. These are delicious cold, but if you have a galley aboard ship, you may want to re-heat them in a saucepan.

The salad is ideal for a boat trip. This, too, can be fixed a day ahead. Pack the lettuce greens and celery separately to keep them cool and crisp.

The cake travels in the pan in which it is baked, making it a good traveller. Use baking pans with slide-on fitted lids if you have them.

BOATER'S BEEF BUNS

Two cubed steaks (about 1½ lbs.), 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 envelope spaghetti sauce mix, 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste, 2 cups cold water, 1 teaspoon sugar, salt and black pepper to taste, 8 hamburger buns, split and buttered.

Cut steak pieces in half to make 2 squares of meat. In a large skillet, lightly brown meat in hot shortening. Remove from heat. Sprinkle meat with spaghetti sauce mix. Add tomato paste, water and sugar. Stir to blend sauce mixture. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and cook gently 25 to 30 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cool meat in sauce; refrigerate overnight. Next day re-heat steak in sauce in a saucepan (heating all or a few at a time as sandwiches are made). Serve a square of meat and sauce on each buttered bun. Makes 8 servings.

SHORE LINE BEAN SALAD

One can (1 lb.) kidney beans, 1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans, 1 can (1 lb.) cut wax beans, 3 medium-size onions, 3 tablespoons prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons water, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1½ teaspoons paprika, ¼ teaspoon herb seasoning, ½ cup sugar, ¾ cup vinegar, ⅓ cup salad oil, 1 large head lettuce, 1½ cups diced celery.

Drain cans of beans; empty into a bowl. Slice peeled onions; separate into rings and add to beans. Make a marinade by combining the mustard, water, salt, paprika, herb seasoning, sugar, vinegar, and salad oil. Mix well. Pour over beans and onions. Let marinate over night. Cut or tear head of lettuce into bite-size pieces. Store in a plastic bag in the refrigerator until ready to use. At serving time, drain off part of the marinade. Add the crisp lettuce and celery. Toss lightly. Add as much of marinade as needed to dress the salad. Makes 8 servings.

STARBOARD PRUNE CAKE

Two and one-quarter cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1¼ teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ¾ cup vegetable shortening, 1¾ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1½ teaspoons lemon peel, 3 eggs, 1 cup buttermilk 1½ cups finely chopped, cooked prunes, 1 cup finely chopped walnuts.

Sift together the flour, salt, soda, cinnamon, nutmeg, and allspice. Set aside. Cream together the shortening, sugar, vanilla and lemon peel. Add the eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the flour and buttermilk alternately in 3 or 4 portions. Blend together at low speed on the electric mixer. Drain prunes well before chopping. Fold in the chopped prunes and nuts. Turn batter into a 13x9x2¼ inch baking pan which has been lightly oiled and dusted with flour. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 50 to 55 minutes. Let stand on cooling rack 10 minutes. Turn out; cool and frost. Or, if you wish — cool cake in pan; frost top with Star Lemon Frosting.

STAR LEMON FROSTING

One-quarter cup soft butter, 2 tablespoons water, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon lemon peel, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 cups confectioners' sugar.

Combine the butter, water, lemon juice, lemon peel, salt and sugar in the small bowl of electric mixer. Beat at low speed until completely blended and smooth. Enough frosting for top of 13x9-inch cake.

Male Cooks Taking Over in Kitchen

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The men who bring home the bacon also in growing numbers cook it.

Male cooks are taking over more and more in the family kitchen, reports the sponsor of an annual cooking contest for men only. The sponsor concluded from a study that six out of every 10 men cook, which was a 10 per cent gain over 1963 when a similar study was made.

Of today's men in the kitchen, 20 per cent prepare breakfast, 45 per cent prepare dinner and 35 per cent often cook both breakfast and dinner.

Written questionnaires were used for the survey, made by the potato chip institute which sponsors the men's national cooking championship. Some 3,946 women whose husbands cook and 3,906 men answered. (Researchers got the names from previous contest entries.)

* * *

In addition, the researchers rang in opinions of 350 psychologists.

It is only natural that more men should be doing more cooking — with the steady increase in numbers of women holding jobs outside the home, the psychologists said.

They pretty well agreed too that in families where husbands cook, there is a closeness of ties that make a happier home. Arguments at the dinner table are fewer.

As for wives, they approved of men helping in the kitchen because it gave them more time for other things like sewing, gardening, being with the children, participating in community activities.

* * *

Diet was a factor. Several women said that their husbands' cooking was simpler and lower in calories than their own and, with husbands cooking, the wives were less apt to be taste testing and adding pounds.

Most of the men said they liked cooking because it provided a creative outlet and a break from business tension. Men like to compete too.

Harvey F. Noss, a vice president of the institute, said that each year for the past five years the number of amateurs entering the contest has increased. Last year, 179,000 men entered 214,000 recipes.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that my wife will not believe it when the gas gauge in the car registers empty? She always has the idea there is enough gas left for one more trip.

This morning (for the third time since Christmas) I've been stuck without gas. Not only was I late for an important business meeting, I was arrested for obstructing traffic. (You can be sure the ticket is coming out of my wife's allowance.)

When two people use the same car don't you feel the tank should be kept at least half full for the convenience of the other person? Your opinion (and support) will mean a lot.—FROTHING.

Dear Frothing: Of course you're right but if it's happened three times since Christmas get smart already. The little woman isn't about to change, so you'd better do the changing, if you want to protect yourself against the physical damage that often results from seething rages.

Whenever you get into the car, assume that the gas tank will be empty. Count on a stop at the filling station as your first order of business. Learning to accept the deficiencies of those we live with instead of trying to change them is the secret of many a good relationship.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for over nine years and you seem to have a great deal to say against mothers-in-law. I'll bet anything yours is a pain in the neck.

My only son married a little nothing. She is plain looking, has no style, no family background, no taste, can't cook, can't bake, her house is a mess and her children look as if someone should send them Care packages.

Yesterday, I could stand it no longer, so I said, "Lucille, dear, is there a reason for leaving that filthy dishrag in the corner of the sink? She replied icily, "If it doesn't bother me why should it bother you?"

One thing led to another and finally she said, "I resent your interfering in my life and I wish you would stop it."

After all, Ann, I turned my son over to this girl and I want her to do right by him. Do you consider a remark about a dishrag "interference?"

—JUST HIS MOTHER

Dear His Mother: This is worse than interference, it's downright outrageous since it's her home, her sink and her dishrag. The dishrag was probably the straw that broke Lucille's back.

About my own mother-in-law being a pain in the neck, you're mistaken. She's a gem. Twenty-six years and never has she offered even one suggestion.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's daughter is getting married in September. She wants to invite all our relatives to the wedding dinner. Her daughter wants to invite all her school friends and the people she works with. When I saw the guest list I almost flipped.

When I told her it would cost a fortune she said, "No, we are going to do something novel — a Dutch treat wedding. We are asking the guests to send a cheque for $5 with their acceptance." (This includes wine.)

I never in my life heard of such a thing and I told her so. She said, "Nobody ever heard of the telephone until it was invented. We may start a trend."

Please, Ann, print your opinion. I swear this letter is no gag. —HOPING TO AVOID SOME RED FACES

Dear Hoping: If your sister is determined you probably cannot stop her. But if it's my opinion you want here it is: Asking people to pay for their own dinners at a wedding celebration is in hideous taste. I hope she doesn't embarrass her family by going ahead with such gauche plans.

Basket Holds Shower Gifts

Mrs. Brian J. Brown and her daughter, Sherrylyn, entertained at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Diane Bonsor, whose marriage takes place later this month. She received a carnation corsage, while her mother, Mrs. E. J. Bonsor, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. D. G. Hill, were presented with floral ornaments. A laundry basket decorated in pink and white held gifts.

Guests were Mrs. C. Emnals, Mrs. B. Johns, Mrs. D. Adams, Mrs. M. E. Brown, Mrs. T. Ryley, Mrs. J. S. Mooney, Mrs. T. Evans, Mrs. G. Forbes, Mrs. B. Dodd, Mrs. H. MacKenzie, Mrs. E. C. Norman, Mrs. E. Lloyd, Mrs. A. Tomlyn, Mrs. L. Kerridge, Mrs. W. Galbraith, Mrs. D. Adams, Miss Leslie Bonsor, Miss Rosalind Johns, Miss Diane Weismiller and Miss Lorraine Jones.

Dutch Kitchen

Cook two endives per person until almost done, taking care that they remain whole. Drain well. Wrap each endive in a slice of ham and place the rolls neatly in a baking dish. Make a thick white sauce of butter, flour and milk, add grated sharp cheese (½ cup to 2 tbsp each butter and flour) and season further to taste. Be sure to pour in the baking dish before pouring the sauce over the endives and ham.

Bake about 30 minutes in 325 degree oven until nicely browned. Or bake it a shorter time, until hot and bubbly, and brown it under the broiler for a couple of minutes just before serving.

Instead of using ham, halved hard-boiled eggs may be placed around the endives before the cheese sauce is added.

For Lady Bullfighter

Sketching Bulls Safer Than Fighting in Ring

By CAROL OLTEN

CHULA VISTA, Calif. — In Mexico, they called Patricia McCormick "the Prussian Canary." In America, she was known as "the Golden Goddess."

In 1963, a national magazine called her "the greatest woman bullfighter who has ever lived."

That was a year after she had retired from the bullring — throughout her career there was a curious blend of powder puffs and grit.

Today, at 35, she maintains the gracious manner and looks of screen star Loretta Young. But, instead of fighting bulls, she sketches them. The walls of her apartment here in the U.S.-Mexican border are filled with the sketches which she hopes will be good enough for a publishing syndicate to buy.

"I've been working on them about a year now," she said, the light catching her grave, hazel eyes. "I'm not a prolific artist, but they're fun when I'm in a creative mood. I was an art major in college and studied under Erbici Soler—he's a sculptor named after one of those odd saints' days in Spain—but I gave that up when I started bullfighting."

* * *

Miss McCormick also sketches battle scenes copied from Bill Mauldin and sometimes thinks of going to Viet Nam as a war correspondent. She does not consider returning to the bullring.

"I would not risk it," she said, her voice as grave as her eyes. "It is best to leave the ring with a good taste in your mouth."

But there were times during her career that spanned more than a decade, that bullfighting did not always leave Miss McCormick with a good taste. She fought about 150 bulls—sometimes winning, sometimes losing. There was a day in the Tijuana bullring in 1953 when she was gored and thrown to the ground twice by an enraged La Punta bull.

With an 8-inch wound in the calf of her leg, she hobbled through the dust to plant her sword four times before the bull fell. Then she apologized to the crowd for not being able to face her second bull.

No longer a bullfighter, Miss Patricia McCormick sketches bullfight scenes. She is pursuing a career in art, even hopes to go to Viet Nam to sketch war scenes.

* * *

A year later in Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, she again was gored and tossed into the air. Alejandro del Hierro, an ex-matador, jumped into the ring and pulled her from the bull's horns. She was in critical condition for several days in a Texas hospital.

Her last fight was July 4, 1962, in Reynosa. She did not plan it as the last, intending to return to Mexico after completing a lecture tour in the United States. The tour fell through in Chicago. Miss McCormick did not want to go back to Mexico.

"I did not want to go back to headaches," she said.

Her voice became grave as she continued:

"I wasn't afraid at the beginning because I didn't know any better. It's funny that way—how the feeling of fear comes. Many people go through life not knowing what it is. It's a sinking feeling that hits the bottom of your stomach like lead. You have to ride along with it. You think more clearly and act more quickly when you have it, but not to have it would be better."

* * *

She glanced at the sketches, smiling at the notations. One said, "You're bored." I asked if she meant herself or the matador in the drawing.

"Here, myself," she said. "But it could be both of us. The bull is too fat."

Sometimes the world of Patricia McCormick is not so grave, after all.

Shampoo Solves Problem

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you ever get tuneful at hair-washing time, you're sympatico with a problem actress Joanna Lester had—and conquered.

The beauty, Howard Keel's leading lady in the latest revival of "South Pacific," had to sing a love song with shampoo in her hair every day for three months, including twice on Wednesday and Saturday.

"I don't know how Mary Martin felt about it, but I was always afraid I was going to cry," Miss Lester said.

Finding a non-irritating shampoo that kept the hair in good condition despite frequent sudsing became a number one problem.

Miss Lester decided at that point to baby herself. She started using baby shampoo for the daily performances.

"It solved both problems with one swoop," she said. "It doesn't sting if it accidentally gets in my eyes. And it actually left my hair more manageable."

Her roles in two Las Vegas shows, running at the same time, proved how much a different hair style could change her appearance.

"I had to be a 15-year-old school girl in the afternoon and a 26-year-old society woman at night," she said. "I played the teen-ager with my hair straight, pulled back and held in place with a ribbon. For the older, more sophisticated part I let it hang loose with a slight flip to one side.

"What I learned is that any woman can go from a sedate daytime look to evening glamor simply by changing her hair-do and costume. Those who advocate applying gobs and gobs of make-up just because they're headed for an exciting night on the town are all wrong."

ATOMS AID KITCHEN

Canadian and American scientists hope to double the shelf life of fresh meat by treating it with nuclear radiation. This will kill the bacteria which cause food to go bad.

Sitting room in the motion picture production of "My Fair Lady," designed by Cecil Beaton, is in blue, grey and white. The desk is part of the fine collection of furniture in the Warner Bros. property department. The grey-on-white wall paper was specially printed for Beaton from original blocks of the Edwardian era.

Professor Higgins Sets Trend

Home-decorating has taken on a beautiful new look, bringing up to date the elegant style of the Edwardian period, and it's all because of a motion picture.

The picture, of course, is Warner Bros.' opulent "My Fair Lady."

When preparing the $17,000,000 production, Jack L. Warner, president of Warner Bros., was quick to enlist the services of Cecil Beaton, the acknowledged authority on Edwardian dress and furnishings. It was Beaton who had so successfully designed the costumes for the stage version and who had been acclaimed for the architectural and decorative correctness of his sets.

Beaton devoted ten months to the film. Much of his time was spent in locating the proper furniture, wallpaper, and drapes, and choosing color schemes, while at the same time attending to the costuming of stars Audrey Hepburn, Rex Harrison and scores of others.

Checked and double-checked by Beaton were the architecture of St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden, and the furniture designed by Baillie Scott in the 1890's, which Beaton decided would be the proper furniture for a forward-looking iconoclastic professor like Henry Higgins to have in his Wimpole Street home—a home "boasting rooms within rooms, mahogany partitions and the rest."

Beaton's furniture designs might be considered an individual view of the Charles Voysey - Charles Mackintosh-Baillie Scott revolution, which started to take English furniture design out of the Victorian doldrums into the forefront of the Modern Movement in Europe.

Return from Ontario

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Landon, 415 Michigan St., returned on Saturday from an extended motor trip to Ontario. They were accompanied by their granddaughters, Miss Sharon Hay of Vancouver and Miss Heather McConnachie of Penticton. They spent some time in North Bay, Ontario, visiting their son-in-law and daughter Cpl. and Mrs. J. G. Clement, R.C.A.F. and granddaughters Denise and Suzanne. The return trip was via Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Michigan and Duluth, Minnesota to Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis, 1749 Adanac Street, marked their golden wedding anniversary recently at a quiet family gathering. They were married July 30, 1915, in Victoria. Mr. Davis was born in 1883 in Glasgow, Scotland, and Mrs. Davis in 1878 in Sutherlandshire, Scotland. Mr. Davis moved to Tacoma, Wash., with his parents as a young boy, receiving most of his earlier education there. He came to Victoria in 1895 and as a young man spent about five years as a seaman on deep water ships. He quit the sea in 1903 and went to the Yukon where he worked for three seasons on the steamboats. When he returned to Victoria he went to work for a well-known elevator company where he spent the next 30 years. The couple has one son, Mr. Andrew McIntosh Davis of Vancouver. On their anniversary they were honored with a presentation from the Thermopylae Club of which Mr. Davis has been a member for a number of years — (William A. Boucher)

Wickheim-Foster

Bride and Groom To Live in Sooke

Centennial United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when Barbara Joan Foster became the bride of Mr. Ardiel Wickheim.

Dr. S. J. Parsons officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Douglas Foster of Port Alberni, and the son of Mrs. Michael Wickheim, Sooke, and the late Mr. Wickheim.

Grandfather of Miss Foster, Mr. B. R. Kark, gave her in marriage.

Charming in gown of silk organza which touched the floor, the bride had three attendants, her sisters as matron-of-honor and bridesmatron, and flower girl Diana Peers, niece of the groom.

Miss Foster's gown which was slightly on train, had a bodice of peau de soie. A short veil was held by a spray of pearls and leaves. She carried pink and white carnations and gladiolus.

Sisters Mrs. G. Lynn and Mrs. D. Hillier were identical gowns of turquoise peau-de-soie with matching headpieces and carried flowers similar to the bride. Flower girl wore a frock of white sparkle organza over taffeta with a pink satin sash. She carried a colonial bouquet. Attendants' dresses were made by the matron of honor.

Best man was Mr. Jim Peers, brother-in-law of the groom, and ushers were Mr. John Martin and Constable Don Steen.

Following the reception at the Ingraham Hotel where music was provided by Mr. Steve Barclay at the organ, the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to the Interior of B.C. For travelling the bride changed into a light blue wool suit with white accessories, and wore a brooch, gift of the groom.

On returning, they will live in Sooke.

Spurns Wife

ASHFORD, England (CP) — A 31-year-old Kentish wife, petitioning for divorce on grounds of cruelty, told the judge her husband threw cold water over her, rubbed her back with snow when she was in a hot bath, photographed her in the nude and frightened her with his driving.

The judge dismissed the petition, saying the first two actions were only horseplay, the nude photography was unimportant and the last complaint was simply nervousness with a bad driver.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

TV BITS: Dennis James, who has asked more questions than the Dorion investigators, turns up yet another quiz show in the new CBS schedule. This one's to be called PDQ, and naturally we can hardly wait . . . The Secret Agent's Dilema, a 30-minute special giving previews of all the new NBC programs, will be seen Sunday at 7 on Channel 5. Pivot man is Don Adams, whose new Get Smart series is being counted on by the network as one of the big ones for 1965-66 . . . there are now 3,600,000 color television sets in in the United States, an increase of 77 per cent over the total one year ago, and experts figure the total will rise to 5,000,000 by the end of the year.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

Thrill of discovering a cute play is so exhilarating it may blind you to a possible snag. Even if you spot the neat way to bring home this grand slam without a finesse, you will still need to be on your toes to guard against the possibility of your plan going sour.

A grand slam at duplicate does not need to be such strong odds-on as at rubber bridge, so this seven spade contract reached via the Schenken system was a fair bet. The key was North's jump to three spades; North had already pinpointed 19-20 points in a balanced hand by opening the Big Club and rebidding one no trump, so when South bid the black suits North realized that within the limits of his previous bidding, his hand could not be more suitable. North indicated this by jumping to three spades even though a game-forcing situation already existed, and this spurred South to a grand slam.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 N.T.	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	7 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart queen

Notice, incidentally, that North bid five clubs in response to four no trump. This is the standard Blackwood response to show no aces or all four. (If partner can't tell which, he shouldn't be slam-hunting.) After West has opened the heart queen, how do you figure to taking 13 tricks without taking a finesse?

"Reverse-dummy" play seems to provide a good answer. If South can ruff three hearts in his hand, he may be able to draw trumps in dummy and win 13 tricks via three heart tricks, three trump tricks in North's hand, two red aces and five club tricks. This plan depends on a 3-2 trump division, since otherwise declarer will not be able to draw trumps in dummy. So, flushed with the thrill of finding a likely way to land the grand slam, exactly how would you operate?

Suppose South wins the heart opening, ruffs a heart and crosses to the trump ten. After another heart ruff and another trump lead towards dummy, South's jaw sags when the unlucky 4-1 trump break shows up, but it is too late to recover. East makes a long heart as well as a long trump.

Declarer sidestepped the trumping trap. Having recognized the virtue of the dummy-reversal, declarer proceeded in a manner that would abandon that play in the event of a 4-1 trump break. Having won the heart opening and ruffed a heart, he played two rounds of trumps in dummy. Had both defenders followed, South would still have enough entries to ruff two more hearts; as it was, he tore up the no-finesse plan and pulled all the trumps. After cashing his five club winners, declarer took the winning diamond finesse and landed the slam.

BIG GEORGE by Virgil Partch

Survey Confirms Election Plank Slash Red Tape

REGINA (CP) — A well-run business firm could tell the Saskatchewan government a thing or two about efficiency, a royal commission said today.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice F. W. Johnson, made public a 1,040-page report, the result of a year-long study of how the government conducts its day-to-day business.

The report said the government needs a large dose of "modern management science" to streamline its operations. Savings could amount to as much as $15,000,000 a year, it said.

The commission was set up by Premier Ross Thatcher's Liberal government shortly after Mr. Thatcher took office in mid-1964. A major election campaign promise of the Liberals was that they would streamline government operations.

KNOW-HOW

The commission said it will take some years to carry out most or all of its 177 specific recommendations.

The commission suggested that a new government department, under a cabinet minister, be set up to supervise day-to-day government operations.

The new department would co-ordinate the programs of existing government departments such as health and education departments. It would provide advice to the existing government departments on how to manage their programs day-by-day.

It would co-ordinate the construction of government buildings, taking over the functions of the present public works department, and co-ordinate the hiring of civil servants.

The new department, to be called the department of central government services, also would help set up pools of brainpower and talent to tackle the government's programs.

A government program that would make use of such a pool of talent and brainpower might be, for example, a new medical care insurance scheme.

The royal commission said it was "surprised and disturbed at the lack of program planning in government."

COMPUTERS

The commission said inefficiency and lack of long-range planning are making the government clumsy and slow in meeting the needs of the province's citizens.

The commission said the day-by-day administration of government programs and services in Saskatchewan now costs about $25,000,000. This could be halved if the government spends $800,000 in applying modern management techniques, the commission said.

It said the new department of central government services could provide computer services for other departments. The new department could handle purchases of equipment and supplies such as typewriters, pencils, file-cards, paper, automobiles and trucks.

The commission recommended that a management adviser be appointed to continue the work of the commission on a permanent basis.

"It is not good enough to leave reassessment of management techniques and methods to an occasional royal commission," it said.

The royal commission carried out a detailed study of how the health department—one of the largest government departments—operates.

Experts See Ancient Jaw

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Part of a 40,000-year-old human jaw found near Brno recently was shown to foreign anthropologists at the opening of the Czechoslovak anthropologists congress Sunday, the Ceteka news agency reported. The upper jaw, found in a cave in the Moravian Karst region near Brno together with some stone tools, is said by experts to have belonged to a Neanderthal man.

Sub Collides With Freighter

TOKYO (AP) — A Chinese Communist broadcast said Sunday a United States submarine collided with the Lebanese merchant ship Rodos off Hainan Island July 13, damaging the freighter. A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said he had no information of any such incident and said there would be no comment on what he called Chinese propaganda statements.

Firehall Party Bingo Banned

SALTASH, England (AP)—Every Friday night for seven years the Saltash fire brigade's engines were pushed out of the station to make room for up to 200 bingo players. A government inspector arrived during a recent session and now bingo is banned. One of the firemen commented: "Not a second was ever lost in getting to fires. In fact, valuable time was gained by having the engines already outside."

Canadians Home

Russian Hosts Praised

LONDON (CP) — Canadian parliamentarians bound for home from visits to Russia and Czechoslovakia say the Communists gave them royal treatment that was sometimes daunting and a trifle puzzling.

Members of an all-party delegation of Canadian senators and members of Parliament who stopped off here Saturday night raved about the caviar-for-breakfast and champagne-for-supper welcome they received during two weeks in Russia and a week in Czechoslovakia.

"They gave us the red carpet everywhere we went," said Conservative Senator John Hnatyshyn of Saskatoon. "For some reason they wanted to impress upon us a great friendliness towards Canada."

ALMOST TOO MUCH

Senator Hnatyshyn and Conservative MPs Ken More, Regina City, and Terry Nugent, Edmonton-Strathcona, all remarked that at times there was almost too much hospitality.

Caviar, pickled herring, cold meats, salad, cognac and vodka for breakfast—followed by ham and eggs—had novelty value at first but became awesome on repetition.

The travellers said the overwhelming official welcome clearly was an effort to impress that went beyond even the legendary hospitality of Eastern Europe.

MOTIVES UNCERTAIN

"Perhaps the Russians feel we may serve a useful purpose as a go-between with the United States," the senator said. "It's hard to say exactly what the motive was."

The Canadian party, which had formal meetings with top government leaders in both countries, dispersed following their departure from Prague Saturday morning.

Hnatyshyn, who came to Canada with his parents from the Ukraine as a baby; Liberal Senator David Croll of Toronto, born near Moscow, and Conservative MP Michael Starr of Oshawa, Ont., whose parents came from the Ukraine, all visited old family homes in areas normally out of bounds to foreign visitors.

H-Day Recalled in Prayer

NAGASAKI (AP)—The citizens of Nagasaki bowed their heads in prayer Monday to mark the 20th anniversary of the American atomic bomb which left their ancient Japanese city in ruins.

The bells of Buddhist temples and Christian churches tolled and sirens wailed at 11:02 a.m., the time the second of America's wartime nuclear weapons exploded over Nagasaki and killed an estimated 75,000 persons.

FIRST BOMB

Three days earlier a U.S. bomber had dropped the first bomb on Hiroshima.

Eighteen thousand persons crowded into Nagasaki's Peace Park to hear a message from Prime Minister Eisaku Sato. He promised that Japan, as the only nation to suffer the ravages of the bomb, would redouble its efforts to get a world-wide ban of nuclear weapons.

Pope Paul VI, in a new appeal Sunday for a ban on nuclear weapons, described the atomic bombing of Hiroshima as an "infernal massacre" and an "outrage against civilization."

The head of the Roman Catholic church spoke at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, Italy, before 10,000 tourists and Italians.

"We pray that the world may never again see such a wretched day as that of Hiroshima; that never again may men put their confidence, their calculation and their prestige into such disastrous and dishonorable weapons," he said.

Extra Funds Need for Wages

Lifeguards Will Stay

Funds are getting low, but there will be no city beaches without lifeguards, city aldermen decided Monday.

Parks superintendent Clifford Bate said that $4,200 had been spent from a total fund of $6,000. At least $1,500 more will be need to carry on until the end of the season.

"We have to have lifeguards, and I'm sure Saanich will agree to split the cost, whatever it is," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Inquiries will be made.

The city's tow-away system was the subject of criticism in a letter to city council by Peter Brown.

* * *

Tourists were urged to come to Victoria and then insulted and angered when their cars were towed away and they were forced to redeem them, he said.

Aldermen decided that the whole system could not be scrapped because some tourist cars were towed away. They would have to take their chances with local residents, now that the streets were clearly marked with signs.

It was not a perfect system, but the traffic flow on city streets could not be impeded because of one or two cars, Mayor Wilson said.

In a letter to city council, Empress Motors Ltd. stated that because of an error a tender accepted by the city for two trucks was $1,000 too low.

The company suggested that the amount be split and the city pay $500 more on the deal.

"Not a chance," said one alderman. The others agreed. The deal is completed, and that's that.

* * *

The City Hall contractor, G. H. Wheaton Ltd., will replace the windows in the top floor of City Hall for $412.

City Engineer James Garnett said they were all loose and rattling and leaking water into the building.

"We were poorly advised on this matter earlier," said Mayor Wilson.

An inquiry will be made to find out just who is responsible for cleaning up debris on city streets.

* * *

Gravel, pieces of lumber, sawdust and all sorts of rubbish are seen on the streets, said Ald. A. W. Toone. He has seen drivers swerving dangerously to avoid chunks of glass left on the streets following an accident.

Police carried brooms in their cars and often swept things up, he was told.

Union Hassle Halts Project

SQUAMISH, B.C. (CP) — A jurisdictional dispute Monday idled 220 men at a construction project and halted loading of 3,000 tons of liquid petroleum gas aboard a ship at this port 40 miles north of Vancouver.

Work stopped at both a dock and the site of an $11,000,000 chemical plant Monday when longshoremen threw pickets across an access road shared by both operations.

An official at the plant construction site said he thought the dual picketing was caused by the location of the road and was not deliberate.

Move to Self-Government

New Deal for Fiji

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Pacific islands colony of Fiji was given a new constitution Monday which will be a considerable step forward towards full internal self-government, Colonial Secretary Anthony Greenwood announced.

The new constitution was completed during two weeks of discussions.

It was approved by a majority of the delegates despite the strong opposition of the Indian delegates who disapproved of the methods of election to the legislative council and to the representation of the council by communities.

The Indians comprise a majority in Fiji but were a minority in numbers at the conference and were outvoted.

Suds Slingers Picket Hotels

KELOWNA (CP) — Beer parlor and cocktail room employees picketed three hotels Monday with the city's annual tourist attraction only two days off.

The 27 employees, who claim they were locked out by the hotels, began picketing as final arrangements were being made for the Kelowna regatta which runs from Wednesday to Saturday.

Hotel managers agreed there was a lockout at one hotel but said the employees went on strike at the others.

Death Ship Towed to Port

Lad Tells of Horror on High Seas

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — The death ship Seven Seas was towed into port Monday with a grisly cargo of bodies and a 17-year-old boy who softly told a tale of horror on the high seas.

The coast guard suspended at dark its search for a white skiff and three crewmen still missing from the mystery ship. Reports that the skiff had been sighted headed for Cuba proved false, authorities said, and the search will resume at dawn.

The cutter Cape Shoalwater hove into the coast guard docks late Monday with the Seven Seas lashed to its side. In the crew's quarters of the 175-foot banana boat lay the bodies of three crewmen, and aboard the cutter was Elvin Burywaise, a Honduran able-bodied seaman too young to shave.

Burywaise is the only man remaining to tell of the gory mutiny Saturday night aboard the Seven Seas, for three men are known dead, the skipper was apparently shot and heaved over the side, and the remaining three crewmen have disappeared.

The slightly-built youth, his curly hair hanging over his forehead and his clothes stained with rust from 14 horror-filled hours hiding in the bilge on the ship's anchor chain, was taken to coast guard headquarters.

Burywaise told newsmen how he saw a burly Cuban exile shoot the first mate to death; how he fled to tell the skipper, only to find him lying dead in a pool of blood; and how he crouched in terror in the chain locker until the Shoalwater hailed the derelict ship Sunday.

"I don't know why it happened, I don't know," said the youth in a soft, level voice.

The horror began at 10:15 p.m. Saturday night, he said, as the Seven Seas, bound in ballast from Miami to Tampa,

Titan Silo Blasted, Burned; 48 Dead?

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—U.S. Air Force personnel began bringing bodies out of a Titan II missile silo Monday night after an explosion triggered a flash fire in it earlier in the day, trapping 48 civilian workers inside.

Four bodies were brought out of the silo about 7:20 p.m.

Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer at the site, said another 44 civilians were unaccounted for and presumed inside the missile complex. Their fate was unknown.

Earlier, heat and smoke had thwarted attempts of air force fire-fighters to get down into the silo and determine the condition of the men inside the launch tube.

PRESIDENT INFORMED

President Johnson ordered that every effort be made to save the missing men, the White House announced in Washington.

The Titan missile, designed to carry atomic warheads continental distances, was in position, but the air force said it has no information about whether the rocket burned.

The air force said there was no danger of a nuclear blast.

REVISION JOB

The silo, 15 miles northwest of this central Arkansas town, was undergoing slight revision and updating at the hands of 51 civilian workmen.

Only two of the workmen have been accounted for. One of them said 48 or 49 others were trapped inside the silo.

Air force fire-fighters in asbestos suits contained the fire, but they were unable to get down into the silo, where the missing men were presumed to be.

STILL FIERCE

Billowing smoke and heat prevented the air force from establishing lines of communication, even three hours after the fire started.

One of the workmen, Hubert A. Saunders, 50, a paint foreman, said his fellow workmen were trapped in the silo. He said the fire started when a diesel engine exploded.

The air force declined comment on the cause of the fire.

The Titan II carries a nuclear warhead that becomes armed sometime after launch. The exact time when it is capable of being detonated is classified information.

SMALL CREW

Normally, the silo is manned by a crew of two officers and two airmen, but during updating work they sometimes leave the silo, or remain in their communications centre, which is separated by three steel doors from the silo, where the 108-foot Titan II is kept ready for launch. The air force spokesman said he had been unable to make contact with the silo's crew.

WARHEAD OFF

The air force said the warhead sometimes is removed from missiles when the sites and silos are being updated, and the warhead probably was removed from this missile.

The Titan II missile has a range of 6,000 miles and reaches top speeds of 15,000 miles an hour, the air force said.

Greek King Loses Again

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine's attempt to find a compromise premier for Greece ended in defeat Monday, confronting the young monarch once again with the prospect of returning George Papandreou to power or calling new elections.

The deputies of Papandreou's Centre Union party stood behind him and refused to let the party's deputy leader, Stephanous Stephanopoulos, try to form a new government. Stephanopoulos, given a mandate by the king Sunday night, said he would give it back to Constantine today.

DEEP IN CRISIS

The developments left Greece even deeper in its worst political crisis since the 1947-49 Communist civil war and put Constantine in an increasingly difficult position.

The king's actions in the crisis have tested the institution of the monarchy and brought almost daily street demonstrations, with hundreds injured and one dead.

Sunday night the monarch rejected 77-year-old Papandreou's demand that he be named premier or call new elections. The monarch asked Stephanopoulos, 66, to undertake an "exploratory mandate."

CAUCUS HELD

Papandreou summoned the deputies to a caucus Monday. After more than three hours of debate the deputies voted to support Papandreou's demands and to deny permission for Stephanopoulos, or any other party leader, to become premier.

Since the crisis started July 15, when the king fired Papandreou and named George Athanasiadis Novas premier in a dispute over politics in the army, Stephanopoulos had been mentioned as the most likely compromise candidate for premier. Now that he was eliminated, there was no indication whom the king might call next.

Heavy Water Bid Withdrawn Here

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Victoria industrialist Harold Husband said last night that Western Deuterium has been forced to withdraw its proposal to build a 300-ton-a-year heavy water plant at Estevan, Sask.

Last February, Western Deuterium scored a notable success when it was awarded the contract to supply Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., with heavy water at the low cost of $14.61 a pound.

This price compared with the $20.25 to be paid by AECL to Deuterium of Canada Ltd., which is building another heavy water plant at Glace Bay, N.S.

NEW PROCESS

Mr. Husband, president of Western Deuterium, said the contract was based upon a new process being perfected by France.

It was different from the hydrogen sulphide process being used in the Nova Scotia plant, and in other heavy water manufacturing plants throughout the world.

"We had planned to use the ammonia - hydrogen isotope exchange process, which is cheaper to operate than the former method," said Mr. Husband.

Mr. Husband emphasized that there was nothing wrong with the new technique, except that it was entirely new.

"We simply had to withdraw because AECL stipulated that the heavy water plant must be in production by the end of 1967, and our engineers found that it would be impossible for them to meet this deadline."

Mr. Husband added that since Western Deuterium had been awarded the contract some six months ago, his engineers had been in close consultation with AECL endeavoring to reach an agreement.

'COULD NOT SIGN'

"We could not sign this agreement with its penalty clauses. If we had failed to make the deadline, Western Deuterium could have lost millions of dollars," said Mr. Husband.

"Failure on our part would have meant that AECL would have purchased its requirements of heavy water from other sources at market prices and this would have been charged against Western Deuterium."

Mr. Husband added that while his firm had withdrawn its proposal, it would not end its heavy water studies.

West Strike Drags On

VANCOUVER (CP) — The heads of Canada's major grain elevators returned to their homes Monday after receiving "definitive proposals" on Vancouver's grain handlers' strike.

Dr. G. Neil Perry, federal government mediator, said he presented the proposals during weekend meetings.

Montreal Elevators Busy Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Grain handlers and allied workers in the port of Montreal who have been on strike for almost eight weeks have voted to resume work today.

The overwhelming vote by the striking members of the Montreal Port Employees' Union (CNTU) came Monday in a secret ballot. It ended a walk-out that several times erupted into mass marches, and spelled trouble for farmers as well as shippers.

NEW CONTRACT

Key to the work resumption vote was a new two-year contract proposal by the men's employer, the National Harbors Board.

The board offered a total hourly increase of 50 cents—30 cents of it to be retroactive to last Jan. 1, five cents effective from the date of the contract signing and 15 cents effective from next Jan. 1.

Arid Russia Needs Wheat

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia again will be a big buyer of wheat from Canada and other foreign countries during the coming crop year, Western trade experts predicted Monday.

Purchases should run into the hundreds of millions of dollars, they said.

POOR CROP

The forecast is based on indications that Russia's own wheat crop will be a disappointing one.

The winter wheat crop, harvesting of which now is coming to a close, is said to be good. Some recent travellers to the Ukraine, principal producer of winter wheat, got the impression that it will be the best or nearly the best on record.

However, all signs point to a relatively small harvest of spring wheat, gathering of which gets under way in earnest about two weeks from now.

Officially, there has been little to indicate the size of the crop. But widespread reports tell of drought or near-drought conditions afflicting Kazakhstan and neighboring areas of the Russian federation, east of the Volga River, vital areas for the spring wheat harvest.

TRAVEL BAN

The dry weather is reported to have lasted at least through June, regarded as the crucial month for wheat growth.

Speculation about a poor crop has been buttressed by the refusal of Soviet officials to permit Western agricultural attaches to travel in the virgin land wheat-growing country of Kazakhstan. One attache has twice been refused travel permission.

'Tear Town Down'

Negroes Angered By Delay Tactics

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — Angered by alleged delaying tactics by voters registration officials, 200 Negroes staged an impromptu rally at the courthouse Monday where one of their leaders threatened "to tear this town down."

★ ★ ★

"These white folks do one thing one day and something else another day," shouted Negro leader Willie Bolden in a fiery speech outside the courthouse. "We're going to get the right to vote or we're going to tear this town down."

The crowd cheered loudly when Bolden said "I'm convinced we need a federal registrar."

Large numbers of Negroes showed up at the courthouse Monday morning but there was apparent confusion in the registration process.

Some Negroes said they had been told to come back later to complete the registration process. Others said they had not been told to return.

★ ★ ★

County officials at first said Negroes could file their voter registration applications Monday and the board of registrars would meet today to process them, but officials announced later the board would meet Monday to begin taking applications.

Singapore Quits Malaysia West Shocked

SINGAPORE (CP)—Singapore has seceded from the Malaysian federation and become an independent sovereign state under leadership of its left-wing prime minister, who said Monday he hopes for diplomatic relations and trade with Indonesia.

Premier Lee Kuan Kew, in outlining a neutral course for Singapore, also announced his country would trade with all countries, including Communist China. But the avowedly-anti-Communist Lee said nothing about seeking diplomatic recognition from Peking.

His statement brought an angry blast from Prime Minister Tunku (prince) Abdul Rahman in Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital.

Warning against Singapore having diplomatic relations with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia on grounds it is a neo-colonialist plot against it, Rahman told a press conference:

"If they (Singapore) do that, the obvious intention is to harm our interests. We can't allow that to happen. We would take action."

KEY ISLAND

In Jakarta, First Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia will recognize Singapore if it "proclaims itself an independent state."

Singapore is a key island in the western defence of Southeast Asia and the secession move shocked Britain, Australia and New Zealand. The three countries have committed thousands of troops to the defence of Malaysia.

However, under the secession agreement, signed secretly Saturday, Malaysia has the right to station military forces in Singapore and Britain can continue using its bases here.

But the secession brought

'Things Look Very Good'

HOUSTON (UPI) — "Things are looking very, very good" for a planned attempt to launch two astronauts on a record eight-day flight through space Aug. 19.

Veteran L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and rookie Charles Conrad undergo an intensive physical examination at Cape Kennedy Wednesday.

Posties Ready To Bargain

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal Postal Employees Association, said Monday the agreement ending a 17-day strike of Montreal postal workers could be described as an "interim" arrangement.

HUGE BACKLOG

All the 4,100 workers were back to work Monday and confronting a huge job of backlog clearance following a unanimous vote Saturday accepting salary increases of $510 for letter carriers and $580 for inside workers, which raise their annual salaries to maximums ranging from $4,470 to $4,590.

SHOE FUND

The letter carriers will also receive an increase of $22 on their $30 shoe allowance.

Mr. Houle said in an interview Monday: "As soon as legislation giving civil servants the right to collective bargaining is in force we will seek negotiations for a collective agreement."

Contract Let For Pulp Mill

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $5,600,000 contract for buildings at the Gold River pulp mill of Tahsis Co. Ltd., has been awarded to Laing Construction and Equipment Ltd. of Vancouver.

The company said work on the buildings for the 750-ton-a-day bleached kraft mill would begin in about a week.

The $80,000,000 mill will be at the mouth of the Gold River, nine miles from the town of Gold River.

Short Uneasy Union — Talks Break Down

British Power Jolted Harshly in Aden and Malaya

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's dwindling influence east of Suez has received a one-two jolt with the secession of Singapore from Malaysia and the collapse of independence talks between Britain and Aden.

Singapore and Aden are two additional bastions of British military and commercial power on opposite sides of the Indian Ocean. The separate weekend developments have created uncertainty about the prospects of continuing Western influence in both places.

The Malaysian Federation has been a pro - Western political entity that counter-balanced the offmestreetic influence in that area of Sukarno's Indonesia.

Deadlock between Britain and Aden in negotiations on an independence program opens the prospect of increased violence in the Red Sea colony by the Aden National Liberation Front.

The Malaysian Federation has been an uneasy union from its beginning 22 months ago.

The dominant Chinese of Singapore became a minority among the Malays of the federation. Singapore was the scene of bloody race riots last summer.

Lee Kuan Yew, premier of Singapore, is a socialist who had friendly relations with such non - aligned governments as Yugoslavia, Egypt, Algeria and — before formation of the federation provoked Indonesia's armed hostility—with Indonesia.

Federal Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, on the other hand, is an ardent conserv-

Alberta Leads by Eight In Team Golf Matches

WINNIPEG (CP)—Favored Alberta Monday took an eight-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 36-hole Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches.

A fine 70 by Keith Alexander, one of three players to break the par of 72 over the 6,573-yard Pine Ridge course, led the Alberta team of four to a combined score of 296, eight strokes better than that turned in by defending-champion Saskatchewan.

Four strokes back of Saskatchewan, at 308, came Ontario and Manitoba. British Columbia, getting an unlikely 83 from veteran Bert Ticehurst, was in fifth place, 13 strokes off the pace at 308.

Only two of the 36 team members managed to break par on a course which featured large, deceptive greens and which was made a bit tougher by 20-mile-an-hour winds. Actually, only 22 of the field entered in the Canadian amateur championships and trying for the 64 qualifying berths managed 75 or better.

THE OTHER TWO

Ted Homeniuk of Winnipeg was the other team player to break par, shooting a 71 to keep his team within hoping distance.

The other player to break par was Juan Estrada, 1964 Mexican Open champion, who matched Alexander's round to share the first-day medal honors with the 1960 Canadian amateur champion.

Gregory Pitzer of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was the only player to match par, turning in a 37-35. At 73 were defending champion Nick Weslock of Toronto, seeking his third consecutive title, Charles Brace of Halifax, Jim Scissons of Saskatoon, Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., and Ken Fulton of Winnipeg.

Weslock and Scissons are members of their provincial teams but Fulton missed selection on the Manitoba team. Had he been included instead of Barry McKenzie, who had an 82, Manitoba would have been only one stroke back of Alberta instead of 12.

John Russell of Vancouver, best of the disappointing B.C. team, was bracketed at 74 with Bob Wylie of Calgary, George Boutell of Phoenix and Gord Lenton, another Winnipeg player not on the Manitoba team.

Included in a large group at 75 were Bill Campbell, 1964 U.S. amateur champion from Huntington, West Virginia; Tom Draper of Royal Oak, Mich., runner-up for the Canadian championships in 1962, and Ricardo Vega, Mexican junior champion.

The team matches were featured by the first appearance of a team from Newfoundland. It was a rough debut, scores ranging from 85 to 92 to leave the Islanders 56 strokes behind the leaders and 31 behind the combined New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island entry which was eighth.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Having just missed winning the World amateur team matches last year in Rome, and now having taken the America's Cup for the first time, Canada must be rated to have arrived as a world force in amateur golf.

With such seasoned campaigners as Weslock, Alexander, Johnson, Cowan, Ticehurst and Silverberge, the Canadian team in last week's matches against the U.S. and Mexico at Winnipeg was a formidable one.

It was the first time in seven attempts that the U.S. team had been defeated in this three-sided contest, and the Canadian victory was extremely timely because there has been some doubt in recent years as to whether the U.S. would continue to participate in it.

At one time, the U.S. sought to have the competition played by juniors from the three countries on the grounds that leading amateurs did not have sufficient leisure time to take part in this event in addition to numerous other competitive calls made upon them in the course of a year.

The downgrading of the America's Cup was opposed by the Canadian authorities, who claimed that it could only be a success if it was kept on a prestige level.

The fact that the Canadians have now won the event may revive U.S. interest in the event. It must now be clear to those across the border that when it comes to amateur events only the best available can hope to make a match of it with Canada's present strong team.

One of the interesting features of this foursome and singles match play event, was that Canada laid the foundation of its success by the advantage it gained in the "Scotch" foursomes.

The Canadian players teamed up better than the others in this alternate shot competition, and that was how they managed to hold grimly to top place despite the fact that the U.S. did best in the final series of singles and closed the gap to a single point.

With a net 132, six below par, Charles J. Keenan took the Todd Cup, the handicap medal championship of the Victoria Golf Club at the weekend.

His 36-hole total put him three ahead of Norm Bamford who had led the field with a net 63 at the end of the first round. Bamford, handicap 16, took 88 on his second round.

The winner played to a handicap of 23 for his first round of 66 net and was off 22 for the second round in which his net was also 66.

The following players have been selected by Zone six to play in the inter-zone junior match with Zone 1 at the Victoria Golf Club Sunday August 22.

Bert Wright (Cowichan), R. Hogarth and R. Facer (Nanaimo), P. Beneditson (Comox), and F. Bayuk, K. Foulds, T. Hicks, K. Cook and D. Smart, (Mt. Brenton).

The return match will be played at Nanaimo, Saturday September 18.

The two teams meet again Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at Central.

Roberts Has 'Em Wondering

Robin Roberts returned to the National League last night, and he must have left Philadelphia Phillies and Baltimore Orioles wondering why they hadn't kept him. Not to mention the New York Yankees.

The Phillies let him go after the 1961 season and a career which had seen him win 234 and lose 199 games for them. The Orioles picked him up in 1962 after the Yankees had let him go without getting a chance in league play.

In his three and a half seasons with the Orioles, Roberts won 37 and lost 29 but he left a few days back at his own request, unhappy with being relegated to the bullpen.

And now Minnesota Twins and San Francisco Giants, to name two clubs making pennant bids on rather-thin pitching, must be wondering. Roberts landed with the Houston Astros, and last night he beat the Phillies, 8-0, with a four-hitter.

Only one batter got as far as third base against the 39-year-old (on Sept. 30) righthander, and he walked only one hitter in gaining his 272nd major-league pitching win.

It was one of two games scheduled yesterday. In the other, Cleveland Indians had their pennant hope dimmed a bit more as they ran up against a younger righthander, who also had been having his troubles this season.

That was Dean Chance, pitcher of the year in 1964, and he fired a two-hitter as the Indians took it on the nose, 9-0, from Los Angeles Angels.

On Sunday in a full schedule of baseball, things tightened up again in the National League and the Twins gained a bit more ground in the American League.

OUCH

The big noise was in Cincinnati, where the Reds bombed Don Drysdale and four successors with a 20-hit attack which buried the leading Los Angeles Dodgers, 18-0.

With Milwaukee Braves winning a pair from the Astros and the Giants running their win streak to six games, it left the first four clubs only two games apart with the Giants losers of two fewer games than any of their rivals.

WHO ELSE?

Once again it was Willie Mays who kept the Giants going. He hit his 30th home run, the fifth in four games, and two singles as the St. Louis Cardinals took a 6-4 beating.

It continued the turnabout Mays started after a three-week slump which saw him get only six hits in 60 at bats. He has driven his batting average back to .328 with 10 hits, five home runs and 10 runs batted in for his last four games.

It was Ed Mathews, rapping out five hits and driving in seven runs who led the Braves to their 8-5, 8-3 sweep over Houston. And, incidentally, it was Warren Spahn who got credit for the Giants' win.

Sparkling Sub-Par Round Makes Champion Medalist

VICTORIA — Dr. Melvin Aspray of Tacoma served fair warning yesterday at the Victoria Golf Club that he is ready to defend the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association championship.

Dr. Aspray sizzled around the Oak Bay links in the qualifying round to win medal honors handily with a three-under-par 66, going out in a brilliant 31 strokes and coming in with a 35.

It left him seven strokes ahead of Portland's Bill Blakeley, winner in 1962 and 1963, who shot a 73. Tom Green of Seattle, winner in 1961, was third among the qualifiers, sharing the position with Ed Murphy of Portland. Both had 74s.

OTHER CONTENDERS

Other qualifiers were Stan Stretton of Bellevue and Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria, making his first appearance and one of the prime favorites, at 75; Dr. Merle Taylor of Portland at 76; A. W. Rocks End Slump In 'Nothing' Game

Last night's score: Coquitlam 8 at Victoria 12.

Next game: tonight—Coquitlam at Vancouver.

By JIM TAYLOR

In a way, it was kind of sad.

Here were Victoria Shamrocks, beating Coquitlam Adanacs, 12-8, doing it mainly with home-grown players, and doing it exceedingly well.

The trouble was, they were doing it about four games too late.

Shamrocks finished their 10 games against Adanacs with a 2-8 record. Had they broken even with them on the season the clubs would now be tied for third place. As it is, the Rocks are 12 points back, and far, far out of the Inter-City Lacrosse League playoffs.

BOTH WEAKENED

Last night's win broke a 10-game Shamrock losing streak, and it was engineered on hustle on a night when both clubs were missing key players.

Shamrocks were without Bill Russell, Tom Collett, Nirmal Dillon, Larry Clarkson, Larry Biggs and Bob Harris. Adanacs left Ken Oddy, Rod Bodner, Ivan Stewart and Jack Barclay at home. So maybe they were about even.

Jim McNeill used the game to take a look at juniors Pat Green and Ron Zilkie, and also brought in Keith Lawrence and Bob Coutts from senior "B". Everyone looked as though he might have helped through this long and dismal season.

TOP PERFORMANCE

So did Jack Showers. The defenceman, who missed most of the schedule with injuries, scored two goals and checked as he always does, hard and well.

Shamrocks end their schedule with two games against New Westminster — here Wednesday and on the mainland Thursday. Depending on how second-place Vancouver fares against Adanacs twice this week, the Rocks may still have a say in who finishes first.

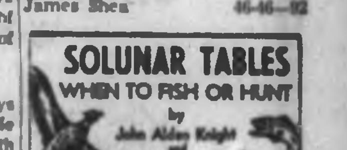

But for a club in last place, that's not much consolation.

If Children Get Along Why Can't We Adults?

By KLAUS MUENTER

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Children of eight lands played and sang their way into the hearts of several hundred Vancouver Islanders who visited the final open house at Children's International Summer Village, Strathcona Lodge School for Girls here, Sunday.

The high spirits were not dampened by rain, when the performance had to be moved from the spacious lawn in front of the school to the auditorium.

Camp director John Berges told the crowd "If the children can play, sing and live together at 11, why can we not an an older age?"

The auditorium, filled to capacity, echoed the cheerful songs and dances from Norway, Denmark, Philippines, Mexico, Japan, Guatemala, United States and Canada.

Following the performance the visitors toured the buildings that housed the young delegates and viewed different displays. Children's International Summer Village will officially close Saturday at noon, when first delegations leave for their homelands.

Some of the youngsters will stay at Shawnigan Lake until Monday waiting for their flights. The summer village that opened July 15, was the second of its kind in Canada.

It was sponsored by Vancouver Island chapter.

Mr. Berges also was in charge of the first Children's International Summer Village, held during August last year at Belwood Lake, Ont., which had been sponsored by the Kitchener chapter.

CITY OF VICTORIA

VOTE for ALDERMAN FRED W. MARTIN

1. I ask to be elected to City Council because I honestly feel, with my practical business administrative experience, I could bring some new life and ideas into good policies. Especially, I do want to represent all the people of the city.
2. I will certainly urge, a stepped-up program to save the downtown business core.
3. I will advocate vigorous efforts to relieve downtown traffic problems. I am in favor of one-way streets as recommended by the engineering department. I will strongly recommend the removal of all . . . after 4 p.m. parking restrictions which do nothing more than drive people out of the city.
4. I feel a complete new tax structure MUST BE PLANNED, AND, AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.
5. I feel, a preventative maintenance policy is the only course any administration should follow.
6. No administration can carry on its full responsibilities without a feeling of co-operation and willingness with the surrounding municipalities to build a much better . . . Greater Victoria.
7. I will do whatever I can to take the white elephant, out of the McPherson Theatre. It can be operated to pay its own way and should not be a burden on the tax payers of this city.
8. I will do whatever I can do to set up the mechanics to increase within city living. One way would be to deal with rundown housing conditions in the many areas. Today, we are faced with a declining population. This need not be so, if City Hall would become more progressive in urban renewal.
9. Tourism should triple within a few years. Some one that knows the value of this Number 1 industry should be on the City Council to see that we get full mileage for every dollar we spend.
10. I will refuse to take any kind of defeatist attitude towards industrial development for our area. Hundreds of our young people finishing school cannot find jobs. Something can be done and must be done without delay.
11. I feel most sincerely many people who are on welfare and could work and earn a few dollars should be able to do so without their welfare cheques being jeopardized. Surely they could use a few extra dollars for the better care of their loved ones. Also, much more could be done for our senior citizens.
12. Sensible administration with a sincerity to serve all the people equally; with no special privileges or favours to anyone will always be my stand.

With $2,000,000 Expansion

St. Joseph's Becomes Regional Hospital

COMOX—St. Joseph's Hospital here has become the Comox Valley's regional general hospital.

Shortly before noon Monday, representatives of the hospital signed a contract for an almost $2,000,000 expansion at the hospital.

GOVERNMENT SIGNS

The provincial government representative also signed, which means the hospital will get major federal provincial grants.

Of the amount needed, $850,000 is being raised by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

William Moore, chairman of the hospital board, said this is definitely not a case of public funds going to a private hospital.

'ONE HOSPITAL'

"This is now the Comox Valley's regional hospital," he told the Colonist, "government representatives made it clear they will support only one regional hospital, and this is it!"

The announcement followed one of the most confused and controversial issues seen in the valley for years.

In a vote July 29 owner-electors refused permission for taxation for the purpose of building the expansion.

DEADLINE PASSES

Last weekend the deadline date for signing the tender with Laing Construction, Vancouver, came and went with no announcement. It was reported the sisters were taking another look at the situation. They had announced the previous Wednesday at a meeting with Dan Campbell, municipal affairs minister, that they were willing to supply the full amount of the money required, if provincial and federal grants would still be forthcoming.

Today's announcement put an end to speculation and uncertainty.

Construction will start immediately.

Duncan Calls Meeting On Pool Plan

DUNCAN—City council has decided to get moving on regional recreation.

First step an unwritten program to move ahead with projects of regional application, is a swimming pool in Duncan.

REGIONAL BODY

At Monday night's council meeting, council decided to call a meeting Monday to get the pool plan rolling.

Ald. Bob Mason suggested a regional recreation body should be set up, including Duncan, North Cowichan, and the unorganized area south of Duncan.

PLANNED PROJECTS

This body would co-ordinate and regulate recreation for all citizens of the district through properly-planned projects with regional application.

At the meeting next week North Cowichan delegates will meet with aldermen from Duncan and the Rotary club in the city, to discuss the swimming pool.

LONG DELAY

"This project has been put off too long," said one alderman, "a decision should be reached soon!"

Rotary proposed the pool some time ago, and offered to pay the initial $25,000 to get the project going.

Also at Monday's meeting:

Council tabled a letter from Great Northern Gas Utilities, which said the firm is still interested in the possibility of piped propane distribution in the area.

Council referred to Town Planning Commission a proposed location for the government liquor store in Duncan.

The new location would be a rental premises in the area of a new shopping centre on Robertson Street near the Trans-Canada Highway.

Water consumption during July was twice as much as during the same period last year.

Alderman Jim Saunders expressed concern about the increasing number of hit-and-run cases on the roads.

FINES JUST JOKE

"Fines are just a joke," he told council, advocating higher penalties for drivers who leave the scene of an accident.

Acting mayor Hamish Mutter said "the fines apparently do not serve their purpose."

Council will meet this afternoon to consider this year's river flood control program.

Duncan Inquest

No Blame On Death In Jail

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury learned Monday a retired chimney sweep who died in police cells Aug. 1, suffered a severe heart attack.

This was given as the cause of death by the physician called to the jail to attend John Wiebe, 63, when he collapsed after being arrested by police late July 31.

NO BLAME

The jury attached no blame.

Police told Coroner Colin Anderson and the inquest jury that the elderly Duncan man was arrested after a patrol car followed him for some distance on a road near Duncan.

'INTOXICATED'

Police said Wiebe swerved across the road and drove in the wrong lane for some distance before he was stopped.

They testified he was "intoxicated", and was arrested on a charge of impaired driving after police viewed his movements outside his car.

NANAIMO—An athletic 17-year-old Courtenay lifeguard won the marathon swim from Nanaimo to Protection Island, against 160 other swimmers.

He made the mile swim in 21.5 minutes.

One-third of the competitors dropped out at the halfway mark.

Youngest competitor to finish the swim was Scott Taylor, 11, of Seattle, who came fourth with a time of 25.5 minutes.

Oldest swimmer to finish was Ian Jeffries, Nanaimo, who is 39, and came 32nd in the race.

In second place was Pete Greig, West Vancouver, two minutes behind the winner, and third place was a tie between Barry Finch, 18, and Gunnar Jansen, 22, both from Nanaimo.

In ninth place and the first woman to finish was Evelyn Creelman, 17, of Lake Cowichan, with a time of 28 minutes.

Galiano Crew Unearths New Find

GALIANO ISLAND—Archaeologists have uncovered the third of a series of ancient burial grounds here.

Latest find is the bones of a human buried more than 2,000 years ago, by estimation of the workers.

They found everything but the skull in the latest digging here.

LOOK FOR SKULL

Excited university students now are sinking another excavation near the third one to probe for the skull.

The excavations are being carried out at Montague Harbor.

The expedition is financed by the provincial government, the Archaeological Sites Advisory Board, and B.C. universities.

BONES BRITTLE

Digging at the site is slow and careful; bones of the ancient skeleton are very brittle, and the party is taking precautions to unearth the findings undamaged.

When found, the bones are brushed with a special preservative, so the skeleton can be safely moved to a museum.

Chief's Son Dies In Car Crash

LAKE COWICHAN — An inquest into the Sunday traffic death of Peter Lawrence Albany, 18, opened at Hirst Funeral Chapel Monday night with viewing of the body.

The inquest hearing will be held at Lake Cowichan Monday. Mr. Albany died instantly at 6:25 a.m. near the village of Lake Cowichan when his car went out of control in a curve on the Cowichan Lake road and crashed into a power pole.

ALONE IN CAR

A wrecker was needed to free the body. Mr. Albany was travelling alone toward Duncan. He had been employed at Hillcrest Sawmill at Mesachie Lake a few miles west of Lake Cowichan.

The dead youth was the son of Songhees Indian band chief and Mrs. John Peter Albany, 1341 Craigflower Road, Victoria. He is survived by one older brother, Garry, three younger brothers, Gene, Frank and Nicholas, one older sister, Wendy and two younger sisters, Jacqueline and Renee.

School Tension Here to Stay

COURTENAY — School board here has been asked to help reduce the pressures on children in primary school.

A committee calling itself the Relief from Pressures Committee of the B.C. Primary Teachers' Association, asked the board to make public the increasing tensions of tots in school.

Said trustee John Nichol: "They are going to have pressures when they get out of school; they might as well get used to it."

DIAGNOSIS

The committee asked for three steps from the board — public education, reduction in class size, and early diagnosis.

The board members felt there is little they can do about pressures on children.

But they admitted such pressures exist, and may be increasing.

PARENTS DRIVE

The board decided one cause of tension in school children is too many activities programmed for them.

Another problem is the ambition of parents, forcing children to graduate from school, to excel, to go on to university.

Board members said often children are expected to perform beyond their capabilities.

Board members said the new high school curriculum, with its varied courses, may relieve pressures on older students.

Shawnigan Lake

Residents Petition For Cougar Control

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — An anti-cougar petition with 640 signatures promoted by Mrs. Harold Leader, will ask recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan for action to control cougars in the Cowichan and Shawnigan area.

Rwas sent to Mr. Kiernan Monday. The petition suggests local cougar hunters be hired on a part time basis to assist the government hunter, and legislation, whereby all livestock farmers who lose animals to cougars receive compensation.

A letter on the problem also will be sent to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter. Mrs. Leader said, "I am glad 640 people decided to sign the petition in an effort to stop the cougar menace in the area."

The shooting of a starved cougar in downtown Duncan several weeks ago, and the sighting of several other cats prompted Mrs. Leader to start the petition.

Employment Sought for Jobless

Basement Office Houses Hope for the Needy

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO — Deep in the basement of Central Island Health Unit offices on Fitzwilliam Street, there is hope for all those unemployed men and women on the social assistance rolls and for those with physical disabilities.

* * *

Deeply concerned for the future of these people is Hodge Weston, regional rehabilitation consultant, and officials like him throughout the province.

Nanaimo takes special pride in the work performed with rehabilitation of the unemployed, because it was here in 1960 that the departments of social welfare and health first decided to make a survey of the problem.

Every case on the social assistance rolls was reviewed, and 300 people were selected who were unemployed, yet considered employable.

A program through the department of health was devised to help these people, with the result a rehabilitation committee was set up with a consultant in full-time attendance.

* * *

The committee is formed from representatives from the National Employment Service, the department of social welfare, psychiatrist Dr. Jensen, with Dr. Gerald Basham, health unit director as chairman. From time to time other officials such as the probation officer are asked to join the committee when special cases are reviewed.

This form of help is now in operation throughout the province following Nanaimo's lead and as a symbol of its success 85 per cent of cases referred to the committee have successfully regained employment.

Referrals for people who need help are made to the rehabilitation committee and these are chiefly made by the department of social welfare and the NES, but doctors and any interested person may make a referral.

* * *

Mr. Weston emphasized the committee as a whole tries to help a person. "It's a team approach".

"My job is to work with and for the committee, to have knowledge of resources, job requirements, where people are best sent and training resources".

"A person knows he is being referred and he must be willing. The first assessment is physical, then we look into his background, and previous employment record. He is given sociological and psychological tests, and his academic ability is assessed."

* * *

"The committee then looks at what is needed to bring the person back to employment if, for instance, it is a health problem. Then steps are taken to bring about the best physical state possible".

"We're primarily interested in the disabled", Mr. Weston said, "but people are not only physically disabled. They may be socially academically or financially handicapped".

"It's chiefly vocational training that is needed. Other factors may be health problems, physical disabilities, while considerable numbers lack the academic requirements needed to fit them into a change of vocation".

Job training does not take place just for the sake of training. Every persons is trained in a skill in which he shows a preference, and where his chance of potential employment is good.

Mr. Weston said "where people lack motivation it can often be generated by other people taking an interest in them, but most people want help of their own volition."

Psychometric and psychological testing takes place at the Rehabilitation Foundation in Vancouver and while an unemployed person is receiving tests and during vocational training, the government will pay for subsistence and tuition.

* * *

Vocational training takes place for people in this area at the Nanaimo Vocational School in trades where they have a chance of finding a job.

If a person shows an aptitude for a particular trade where there are few openings, Mr. Weston attempts to "counsel them into a realistic alternative."

The rehabilitation committee not only helps those on social assistance, but has had many successes with members of the public who have suffered sudden major physical handicaps.

In this area Mr. Weston said "we have had success with people trained in power saw and outboard motor maintenance and with training in fire aid timekeepers.

"Quite often disabilities have an emotional effect, and our aim is to make these people feel they are no different from anyone else.

* * *

"Ultimately the whole program hinges on what we can do and what is needed."

Hodge Weston has spent a lifetime helping his less fortunate brethren and firmly believes that we are all our brothers' keepers.

In 1955 he came to Brannen Lake School just outside Nanaimo, in 1958 he was transferred to the field service of the department of social welfare in Nanaimo and has worked for the department in this area ever since.

* * *

Eventually his territory will be all of Vancouver Island north of Victoria, although at present his attention is mainly focussed on the Central Island Heath Unit.

Already rehabilitation committees have been set up in Duncan and Port Alberni as well as Nanaimo.

He said he saw his job "as using public funds wisely to rescue a derelict, and turning him into a normal self-supporting citizen."

Death Ship Towed to Port

Horror on High Seas

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — The death ship Seven Seas was towed into port Monday with a grisly cargo of bodies and a 17-year-old boy who softly told a tale of horror on the high seas.

The coast guard suspended at dark its search for a white skiff and three crewmen still missing from the mystery ship. Reports that the skiff had been sighted headed for Cuba proved false, authorities said, and the search will resume at dawn.

The cutter Cape Shoalwater hove into the coast guard docks late Monday with the Seven Seas lashed to its side. In the crew's quarters of the 175-foot banana boat lay the bodies of three crewmen, and aboard the cutter was Elvin Burywaise, a Honduran able-bodied seaman too young to shave.

Burywaise is the only man remaining to tell of the gory mutiny Saturday night aboard the Seven Seas, for three men are known dead, the skipper was apparently shot and heaved over the side, and the remaining three crewmen have disappeared.

The slightly-built youth, his curly hair hanging over his forehead and his clothes stained with rust from 14 horror-filled hours hiding in the bilge on the ship's anchor chain, was taken to coast guard headquarters.

Burywaise told newsmen how he saw a burly Cuban exile shoot the first mate to death; how he fled to tell the skipper, only to find him lying dead in a pool of blood; and how he crouched in terror in the chain locker until the Shoalwater hailed the derelict ship Sunday.

"I don't know why it happened, I don't know," said the youth in a soft, level voice.

The horror began at 10:15 p.m. Saturday night, he said, as the Seven Seas, bound in ballast from Miami to Tampa,

TITAN'S SILO BURNS

48 Feared Dead After Blast, Fire

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—U.S. Air Force personnel began bringing bodies out of a Titan II missile silo Monday night after an explosion triggered a flash fire in it earlier in the day, trapping 48 civilian workers inside.

AP

Titan missile silo

Four bodies were brought out of the silo about 7:20 p.m.

Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer at the site, said another 44 civilians were unaccounted for and presumed inside the missile complex. Their fate was unknown.

Earlier, heat and smoke had thwarted attempts of air force fire-fighters to get down into the silo and determine the condition of the men inside the launch tube.

President Johnson ordered that every effort be made to save the missing men, the White House announced in Washington.

The Titan missile, designed to carry atomic warheads continental distances, was in position, but the air force said it has no information about whether the rocket burned.

The air force said there was no danger of a nuclear blast.

REVISION JOB

The silo, 15 miles northwest of this central Arkansas town, was undergoing slight revision and updating at the hands of 51 civilian workmen.

Only two of the workmen have been accounted for. One of them said 46 or 49 others were trapped inside the silo.

Air force firefighters in asbestos suits contained the fire, but they were unable to get down into the silo, where the missing men were presumed to be.

STILL FIERCE

Billowing smoke and heat prevented the air force from establishing lines of communication, even three hours after the fire started.

One of the workmen, Hubert A. Saunders, 39, a paint foreman, said his fellow workmen were trapped in the silo. He said the fire started when a diesel engine exploded.

The air force declined comment on the cause of the fire.

The Titan II carries a nuclear warhead that becomes armed sometime after launch. The exact time when it is capable of being detonated is classified information.

SMALL CREW

Normally, the silo is manned by a crew of two officers and two airmen, but during updating work they sometimes leave the silo, or remain in their communications centre, which is separated by three steel doors from the silo, where the 103-foot Titan II is kept ready for launch. The air force spokesman said he had been unable to make contact with the silo's crew.

The air force said the warhead sometimes is removed from missiles when the silos and silo are being updated, and the warhead probably was removed from this missile.

The Titan II missile has a range of 6,000 miles and reaches top speeds of 18,000 miles an hour, the air force said.

Greek King Loses Again

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine's attempt to find a compromise premier for Greece ended in defeat Monday, confronting the young monarch once again with the prospect of returning George Papandreou to power or calling new elections.

The deputies of Papandreou's Centre Union party stood behind him and refused to let the party's deputy leader, Stephanous Stephanopoulos, try to form a new government. Stephanopoulos, given a mandate by the king Sunday night, said he would give it back to Constantine today.

DEEP IN CRISIS

The developments left Greece even deeper in its worst political crisis since the 1947-49 Communist civil war and put Constantine in an increasingly difficult position.

The king's actions in the crisis have tested the institution of the monarchy and brought almost daily street demonstrations, with hundreds injured and one dead.

Sunday night the monarch rejected 77-year-old Papandreou's demand that he be named premier or call new elections. The monarch asked Stephanopoulos, 68, to undertake an "exploratory mandate."

CAUCUS HELD

Papandreou summoned the deputies to a caucus Monday. After more than three hours of debate the deputies voted to support Papandreou's demands and to deny permission for Stephanopoulos, or any other party leader, to become premier.

Since the crisis started July 15, when the king fired Papandreou and named George Athanasiadis Novas premier in a dispute over politics in the army, Stephanopoulos had been mentioned as the most likely compromise candidate for premier. Now that he was eliminated, there was no indication whom the king might call next.

Heavy Water Bid Withdrawn Here

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Victoria industrialist Harold Husband said last night that Western Deuterium has been forced to withdraw its proposal to build a 300-ton-a-year heavy water plant at Estevan, Sask.

Last February, Western Deuterium scored a notable success when it was awarded the contract to supply Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., with heavy water at the low cost of $14.61 a pound.

This price compared with the $20.25 to be paid by AECL o Deuterium of Canada Ltd., which is building another heavy water plant at Glace Bay, N.S.

NEW PROCESS

Mr. Husband, president of Western Deuterium, said the contract was based upon a new process being perfected by France.

It was different from the hydrogen sulphide process being used in the Nova Scotia plant, and in other heavy water manufacturing plants throughout the world.

"We had planned to use the ammonia - hydrogen isotope exchange process, which is cheaper to operate than the former method," said Mr. Husband.

Mr. Husband emphasized that there was nothing wrong with the new technique, except that it was entirely new.

"We simply had to withdraw because AECL stipulated that the heavy water plant must be in production by the end of 1967, and our engineers found that it would be impossible for them to meet this deadline."

Mr. Husband added that since Western Deuterium had been awarded the contract seven six months ago, his engineers had been in close consultation with AECL endeavoring to reach an agreement.

'COULD NOT SIGN'

"We could not sign this agreement with its penalty clauses. If we had failed to make the deadline, Western Deuterium could have lost millions of dollars," said Mr. Husband.

"Failure on our part would have meant that AECL would have purchased its requirements of heavy water from other sources at market prices and this would have been charged against Western Deuterium."

Mr. Husband added that while his firm had withdrawn its proposal, it would not end its heavy water studies.

West Strike Drags On

VANCOUVER (CP) — The heads of Canada's major grain elevators returned to their homes Monday after receiving "definitive proposals" on Vancouver's grain handlers' strike.

Dr. G. Neil Perry, federal government mediator, said he presented the proposals during weekend meetings.

Montreal Elevators Busy Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Grain handlers and allied workers in the port of Montreal who have been on strike for almost eight weeks have voted to resume work today.

The overwhelming vote by the striking members of the Montreal Port Employees' Union (CNTU) came Monday in a secret ballot. It ended a walk-out that several times erupted into mass marches, and spelled trouble for farmers as well as shippers.

NEW CONTRACT

Key to the work resumption vote was a new two-year contract proposal by the men's employer, the National Harbors Board.

The board offered a total hourly increase of 30 cents—30 cents of it to be retroactive to last Jan. 1, five cents effective from the date of the contract-signing and 15 cents effective from next Jan. 1.

Singapore Quits Malaysia West Shocked

SINGAPORE (CP)—Singapore has seceded from the Malaysian federation and become an independent sovereign state under leadership of its left-wing prime minister, who said Monday he hopes for diplomatic relations and trade with Indonesia.

Premier Lee Kuan Kew, in outlining a neutral course for Singapore, also announced his country would trade with all countries, including Communist China. But the avowedly-anti-Communist Lee said nothing about seeking diplomatic recognition from Peking.

His statement brought an angry blast from Prime Minister Tunku (prince) Abdul Rahman in Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital.

Warning against Singapore having diplomatic relations with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia on grounds it is a neo-colonialist plot against it, Rahman told a press conference:

"If they (Singapore) do that, the obvious intention is to harm our interests. We can't allow that to happen. We would take action."

KEY ISLAND

In Jakarta, First Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia will recognize Singapore if it "proclaims itself an independent state."

Singapore is a key island in the western defense of Southeast Asia and the secession move shocked Britain, Australia and New Zealand. The three countries have committed thousands of troops to the defence of Malaysia.

However, under the secession agreement, signed secretly Saturday, Malaysia has the right to station military forces in Singapore and Britain can continue using its bases here.

But the secession brought

'Tear Town Down'

Negroes Angered By Delay Tactics

AMERICUS, Ga., (UPI) — Angered by alleged delaying tactics by voters registration officials, 200 Negroes staged an impromptu rally at the courthouse Monday where one of their leaders threatened "to tear this town down."

* * *

"These white folks do one thing one day and something else another day," shouted Negro leader Willie Bolden in a fiery speech outside the courthouse. "We're going to get the right to vote or we're going to tear this town down."

The crowd cheered loudly when Bolden said "I'm convinced we need a federal registrar."

Large numbers of Negroes showed up at the courthouse Monday morning but there was apparent confusion in the registration process.

Some Negroes said they had been told to come back later to complete the registration process. Others said they had not been told to return.

* * *

County officials at first said Negroes could file their voter registration applications Monday and the board of registrars would meet today to process them, but officials announced later the board would meet Monday to begin taking applications.

'Things Look Very Good'

HOUSTON (UPI) — "Things are looking very, very good" for a planned attempt to launch two astronauts on a record eight-day flight through space Aug. 19.

Veteran L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and rookie Charles Conrad undergo an intensive physical examination at Cape Kennedy Wednesday.

Posties Ready To Bargain

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, president of the Montreal Postal Employees Association, said Monday the agreement ending a 17-day strike of Montreal postal workers could be described as an "interim" arrangement.

HUGE BACKLOG

All the 4,300 workers were back to work Monday and confronting a huge job of backlog clearance following a unanimous vote Saturday accepting salary increases of $510 for letter carriers and $900 for inside workers, which raise their annual salaries to maximums ranging from $4,470 to $4,380.

SHOE FUND

The letter carriers will also receive an increase of $22 on their $30 shoe allowance.

Mr. Houle said in an interview Monday: "As soon as legislation giving civil servants the right to collective bargaining is in force we will seek negotiations for a collective agreement."

The $60,000,000 mill will be at the mouth of the Gold River, nine miles from the town of Gold River.

Arid Russia Needs Wheat

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia again will be a big buyer of wheat from Canada and other foreign countries during the coming crop year, Western trade experts predicted Monday.

Purchases should run into the hundreds of millions of dollars, they said.

POOR CROP

The forecast is based on indications that Russia's own wheat crop will be a disappointing one.

The winter wheat crop, harvesting of which now is coming to a close, is said to be good. Some recent travellers to the Ukraine, principal producer of winter wheat, got the impression that it will be the best or nearly the best on record.

However, all signs point to a relatively small harvest of spring wheat, gathering of which gets under way in earnest about two weeks from now.

Officially, there has been little to indicate the size of the crop. But widespread reports tell of drought or near-drought conditions afflicting Kazakhstan and neighboring areas of the Russian federation, east of the Volga River, vital areas for the spring wheat harvest.

TRAVEL BAN

The dry weather is reported to have lasted at least through June, regarded as the crucial month for wheat growth.

Speculation about a poor crop has been buttressed by the refusal of Soviet officials to permit Western agricultural attaches to travel in the virgin land wheat-growing country of Kazakhstan. One attache has twice been refused travel permission.

Short Uneasy Union — Talks Break Down

British Power Jolted Harshly in Aden and Malaya

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's dwindling influence east of Suez has received a one-two jolt with the secession of Singapore from Malaysia and the collapse of independence talks between Britain and Aden.

Singapore and Aden are two divisional bastions of British military and commercial power on opposite sides of the Indian Ocean. The separate weekend developments have created uncertainty about the prospects of continuing Western influence in both places.

The Malaysian Federation has been a pro - Western political entity that counter-balanced the often-erratic influence in that area of Sukarno's Indonesia.

Deadlock between Britain and Aden in negotiations on an independence program opens the prospect of increased violence in the Red Sea colony by the Aden National Liberation Front.

The Malaysian Federation has been an uneasy union from its beginning 23 months ago.

The dominant Chinese of Singapore became a minority among the Malays of the federation. Singapore was the scene of bloody race riots last summer.

Lee Kuan Yew, premier of Singapore, is a socialist who had friendly relations with such non - aligned governments as Yugoslavia, Egypt, Algeria and — before formation of the federation provoked Indonesia's armed hostility—with Indonesia.

Federal Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, on the other hand, is an ardent supporter
